Gunman Robs Bank of $23,890

PUXICO - A well dressed, stocky, middle aged gunman robbed the State Bank of Puxico Friday at 3:15 p.m. of $23,890, and made his getaway after locking five bank employes in a vault.

According to the executive vice-president, Hollan Fann, a lone man posed as a customer shortly before the bank closed. He said he was a diamond salesman and asked that he be allowed to place in the vault his attache case in which he claimed he had diamonds.

"It's a living," the gunman replied when a teller asked him why he was robbing the bank.

Fann asked the visotor: "Do you have a lock on the case?"

The man said he did and he opened the charcoal colored case and pulled out a pistol, and told Fann to go over to the teller cages, "and get me all the big money."

Fann asked the man:

"What do you call big money?"

"All 20s and up," replied the robber. He went to the three teller cages and asked for bills of larger denomination. In charge of the teller cages were Mrs. Helen Wilhelm, cashier; Mrs. Betty Cato, Mrs. Carolyn Bowling, teller and bookkeeper, and Mrs. Lucille Fann, assistant teller and wife of the bank executive.

"He cocked his gun and told me, 'Now open the vault,'" Fann said. He then forced the five into the vault.

Fann said the bank had just small silver but the gunman said he didn't want to take sacks of it but wanted the currency.

The man was of stocky build, about five feet, nine inches tall, between 37 and 40 years old. He had dark hair and had a light complexion; wore a dark suit with a vest and dark hat. He was well groomed, Fann said.

He closed the vault door and left, but according to one published report bank employes were able to call for help from a telephone inside the vault within five minutes after the robbery.

The gunman walked calmly out of the bank, down to a corner and out of sight. A citizen saw the stranger walk to the corner, but it was not known what kind of a car he had waiting.

The state patrol and Stoddard county officials report they have a suspect under surveillance.

Cong Rocket Attack Repulsed as Allies Counter Pre-Truce Strikes

SAIGON (AP) — A Viet Cong battalion fired 600 rockets and mortar rounds into South Vietnamese marine positions in the Mekong Delta today and the marines reported killing 37 guerrillas in repulsing the four-hour assault.

Expecting a major Communist offensive to erupt before the truce for the Vietnamese New Year, allied forces pressed counter offensives in the delta and the area below the demilitarized zone, nearly 500 miles away.

The South Vietnamese troops had set up night defensive positions in a delta hamlet 43 miles southwest of Saigon in Dinh Tuong Province, a hotbed of Viet Cong activity. The Communist assault killed 20 marines and wounded 62, 19 of them seriously, government headquarters said.

It said a small government observation patrol outside the defense perimeter was wiped out.

U.S. Air Force flare planes and Army helicopter gunships were on the scene within 15 minutes to light up the Viet Cong positions and rake them with rockets and machine guns, the Vietnamese reported.

At the same time, the Viet Cong shelled two government district headquarters in the province and the staging area of an infantry battalion and armored unit. Three civilians were wounded and military casualties were light, the government said.

Two miles away from the marine positions, 48 hours earlier, a U.S. Army-Navy task force had started Operation Coronado Ten, aimed at loosening the Viet Cong grip on the province. The Americans reported only limited contact so far. One infantryman of the U.S. 9th Division has been killed and two wounded.

The biggest report of American casualties came from a mountainside 30 miles below the demilitarized zone where a U.S. Marine CH53 helicopter crashed Jan. 8 with 41 persons aboard. A Marine rescue team finally reached the scene Friday and confirmed that all 41 were dead.

The rescuers, who climbed down ropes from a helicopter to reach the wreckage, reported the CH53 apparently had crashed at full speed into the mountainside, killing all aboard instantly.

No Funds for New Patrol Quarters

The request by Col. E. I. "Mike" Hockaday, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, for $436,000 in funds to build a new troop E headquarters in Southeast Missouri failed to receive the approval of the house Appropriations committee Thursday.

The expenditure was not included in the $1.2 billion budget Governor Warren E. Hearnes recommended Friday for the state government operations in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Hockaday appeared Monday at a hearing before the appropriations committee and said the present Troop E headquarters in Poplar Bluff has been outgrown.

He also requested the words "constructed at Poplar Bluff," which had been included in the original bill, be stricken at the hearing.

Hockaday indicated earlier that a location other than Poplar Bluff might be sought for relocation of the headquarters if the funds are obtained.

Failure to make the budget recommendation makes the bill's present status like that of a boxer who is down but not out.

Hockaday's request for building funds could be brought up again by amendment after the House resumes open session next Thursday, or it could be initiated in the Senate.

Religious Leader Group Urges Bombing Halt

SAIGON (AP) — Fifteen prominent Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish religious leaders, here to survey the Vietnam war, today urged President Johnson to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and de-escalate the ground war in the South.

The group also said Americans could not in good conscience "promote justice at home and help to preserve quasifeudalism or the rule and wealth of the few abroad," apparently a reference to the South Vietnamese government.

The lay and clerical leaders are spending four days in South Vietnam as a stop on a world tour following the First Interreligious Symposium on Peace at New Delhi.

Among the signers of the group statement were former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, a frequent contender for the Republican presidential nomination; the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Atlanta, Ga.; Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath of New York, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, and Bishop John Wesley Lord, Methodist bishop of Washington, D.C.

The 15 said they "respectfully and urgently" asked President Johnson "to re-evaluate present U.S. policy; to give serious consideration to an immediate halt, on moral and political if not military grounds, in the bombing of North Vietnam; to de-escalate the level of military action without immediate withdrawal; to be continually open to negotiations, including the use of the secretary-general of the United Nations, and to encourage strongly the non-Communist nationalist elements in South Vietnam seeking social reform and self-determination not in our way but in theirs."

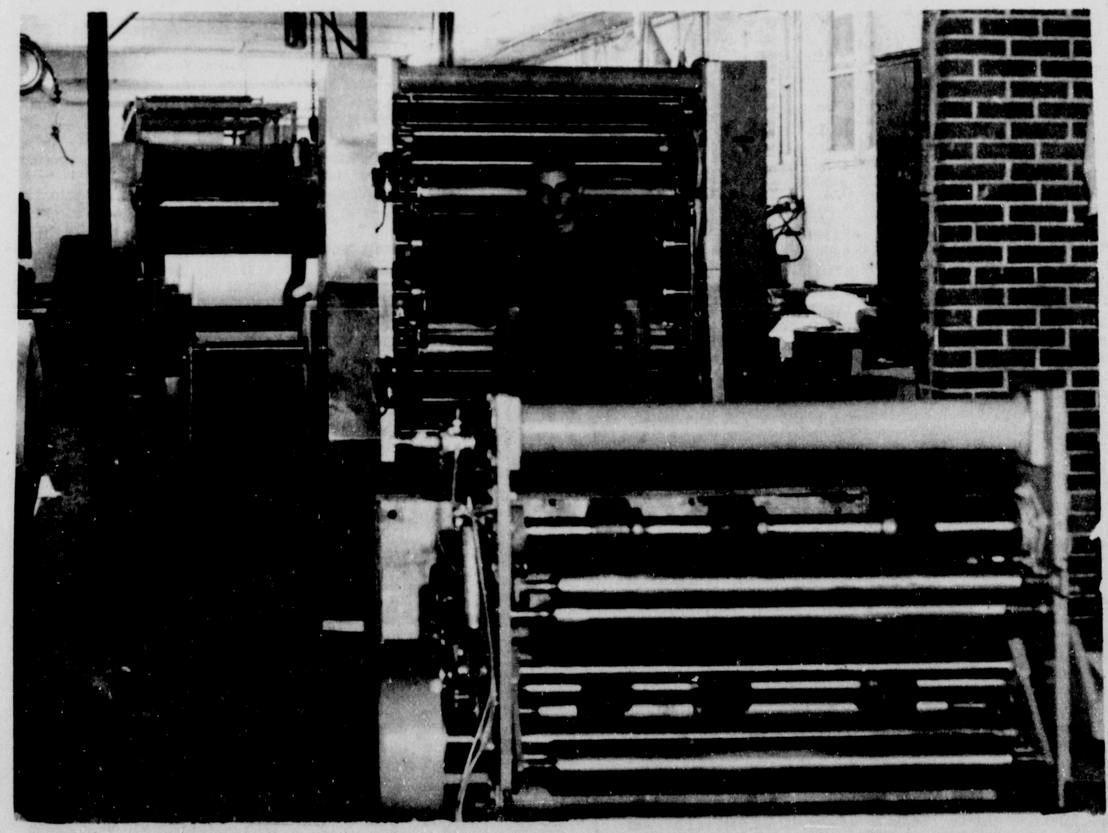

"We stopped in Saigon because the war in Vietnam represents probably the greatest current threat to the peace of the world," their statement said. "It's continuance constitutes a major challenge to the religious conscience of mankind.

"We recognize the often heroic and ever difficult service of our American military personnel."

The statement added that although the signers did not agree to the letter on every issue involved in the war, they were in agreement in urging de-escalation.

"We would emphasize the need for the people of the U.S. and their leaders to be more keenly aware of the widespread moral revulsion growing throughout the world against the incredibly heavy bombing now directed by the U.S. . . .against the small and developing nation of North Vietnam," the statement continued.

"We are also in agreement that there must be greater sensitivity to the consequences of the war and U.S. military policies upon the people of Vietnam. We have been here only briefly; nevertheless, we have a strong impression that too few Americans realize the disastrous effect of this conflict in terms of demoralized family life, killed and wounded civilians, and the disruption of the Vietnamese culture and economy."

A FIFTH PRESS UNIT was added today to permit the Daily Standard to print an additional four pages for a total of 20. Standing in front of the new unit is assistant foreman, George Morris, and in the foreground is a new paper roll stand.

Doves as Well as Hawks Voice Approval of Clifford Selection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leading congressional hawks have cheered President Johnson's choice of Clark M. Clifford, longtime White House adviser and highpowered Washington lawyer, to become secretary of defense.

Leading doves also were friendly or noncommital, at least until Clifford's views on prosecuting the Vietnam war come into sharper focus. This may develop at Senate confirmation hearings, expected soon.

Johnson announced Friday his nomination of the 61-year-old Clifford— "a very wise and prudent counselor to many presidents"— to replace Robert S. McNamara as head of the enormous Defense Department.

Assuming Senate approval, Clifford will take over from McNamara before March 1. Then McNamara, the record holder in time served with seven years as defense chief, will move on to become president of the World Bank— a move announced about two months ago.

Meeting newsmen a few hours after Johnson's action, Clifford refused to place himself on either the hawk or dove side of the Vietnam question.

"I am not conscious of falling under any of those ornithological divisions," said the tall, handsome Clifford to reporters probing for his position.

However, Clifford is regarded in knowledgeable quarters as a hard-liner on the war. Some sources said he has opposed any extended bombing pauses as a means of encouraging the North Vietnamese to talk peace.

His advice to Johnson is believed to have weighed at least as heavily as McNamara's in some of the major decisions of the war, sources said.

The President said Clifford "has been a counselor on most of the important decisions made in the international fields, from defense strength, to weapons, to actions . . ."

Clifford has served Johnson as chairman of the Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, the Foreign Relations Advisory Board, and on special missions such as a tour of Southeast Asian and Pacific nations last summer to try and drum up more allied troop support for the war. That mission was rated a partial success.

Before Johnson, Clifford served Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and John F. Kennedy in varying capacities. Among other things, he helped draft the legislation that unified the armed services two decades ago.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said Johnson made "an excellent choice." The President said he consulted with Russell and the committee's ranking Republican, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, before nominating Clifford.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, said, "I am confident the defense of the nation will be in good hands."

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., another in the hawk camp, declared himself highly pleased.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., who has battled McNamara over the multibillion-dollar TFX warplane project for nearly six years, said Clifford's move into the Pentagon "should mean less arbitrariness in the making of important decisions."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., a chief congressional critic of Johnson's war policy, said he was pleased and thinks Clifford will keep "an open mind."

"He is a man with whom you can exchange views and he is not a zealot," said Fulbright, who has known Clifford more than 20 years.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he could not categorize Clifford's war position but assumed the newly designated Pentagon chief is in sympathy with Johnson's policies.

"I think he is capable of re-evaluating our policies," said Fulbright. "I hope his appointment will signal a change in the present policy."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., indicated misgivings. Aiken said he had heard reports that Clifford had been "one of the most potent, if not the most potent," of presidential advisers in shaping the Vietnam policies Aiken opposes.

The Vermont Republican said he wanted to hear more about Clifford's outlook on the war before commenting at length.

Locke Casts Hat in Texas Governor Ring

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eugene M. Locke, deputy ambassador to South Vietnam, announced today as a Democratic candidate for nomination as Texas governor. The White House formally announced this morning that Locke had resigned his Vietnam post.

Locke is a close friend of Gov. John Connally who is also a Democrat and former secretary of the navy under the late President John F. Kennedy.

Connally earlier said he would not seek a fourth term as governor.

Locke, 49, is a wealthy Dallas lawyer who has devoted much time in recent years to state and national Democratic politics.

Locke recalled that a little over 18 months ago he left Texas to go to Pakistan as ambassador at the request of the President.

"This was a sensitive assignment," he said. "Pakistan had just been at war with India. Pakistan relations with China had become increasingly close. . . I am proud that during my 10 months in Pakistan there was no resumption of the India-Pakistan War, no alliance between Pakistan and China, and the relations between the U.S. and Pakistan improved."

Locke then was sent to Vietnam as deputy ambassador, working with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

"I have been in Vietnam nearly nine months. During that time we have made progress on every front— military, pacification, political, economic. . . I am proud of the accomplishments of our team. These accomplishments are a substantial part of the objectives originally assigned to us last year. With this improved situation, I felt that I could appropriately leave Vietnam, and the President has agreed," Locke said.

Locke said he had discussed the Texas governor's race several times with President Johnson but he would not say what the President's comments were. He also said he planned to ask Connally for his direct support.

The meeting is to inform interested persons and tornado spotters on what to note and how to report tornadoes.

This meeting is sponsored by the Sikeston auxiliary police civil defense unit. The public is invited.

$328,947 Grant Reported

In a published report U.S. Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long announced the U.S. office of education has approved $24.6 million for Missouri programs designed to assist the education of children from low income families.

Scott County will receive $328,947 in direct grants to local education agencies, the report stated.

In addition the county will benefit from funds allocated to the state for handicapped children, juvenile delinquents, neglected children and children of migratory workers, it continued.

Sixty eight training centers for the mentally retarded including one in Sikeston also are to be aided, the report said.

First Aid Course Free

The Red Cross First Aid course to be offered as one of the adult evening education classes starting Monday at Sikeston high school is free.

The only charge involved is 75 cents for a book. It was incorrectly stated in an advertisement in Friday's Standard that the course cost 75 cents per hour.

The free course is one of 28 being offered during the spring semester. For information call the vocational office at 471-5440.

Oran Given $4,000 Grant

ORAN - The department of housing and urban development at Washington has approved a $4,000 public works planning advance to the city of Oran for planning a sewage collection system.

The announcement was made by Sen. Stuart Symington in Washington.

Voters last fall approved a $75,000 bond issue, with $60,000 to be used for the system. The other $15,000 was for purchase of a new fire truck.

Construction on the system is expected to begin in the spring, city clerk Martin Menz said. The project is an exntesion of the present system to the southwest part of the city.

C. R. Trooter and Associates of Dexter are the engineers.

Woman Injured In Car Crash

NEW MADRID - Mrs. Emma Baird, 47, wife of Francis Baird, was injured in a car accident on North Main street Friday at 1:05 p.m.

Baird stopped to let his wife out to enter a beauty parlor. As she was getting out of the car, a 1960 Cadillac driven by David Robinson, 26, New Madrid, struck the rear of the Baird car, causing Mrs. Baird to fall to the pavement.

She suffered possible cracked ribs and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

John Quincy Adams declined nomination to the Supreme Court in 1811 before becoming the country's sixth President in 1825.

No Funds for New Patrol Quarters

The request by Col. E. I. "Mike" Hockaday, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, for $436,000 in funds to build a new troop E headquarters in Southeast Missouri failed to receive the approval of the house Appropriations committee Thursday.

The expenditure was not included in the $1.2 billion budget Governor Warren E. Hearnes recommended Friday for the state government operations in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Hockaday appeared Monday at a hearing before the appropriations committee and said the present Troop E headquarters in Poplar Bluff has been outgrown.

He also requested the words "constructed at Poplar Bluff," which had been included in the original bill, be stricken at the hearing.

Hockaday indicated earlier that a location other than Poplar Bluff might be sought for relocation of the headquarters if the funds are obtained.

Failure to make the budget recommendation makes the bill's present status like that of a boxer who is down but not out.

Hockaday's request for building funds could be brought up again by amendment after the House resumes open session next Thursday, or it could be initiated in the Senate.

Religious Leader Group Urges Bombing Halt

SAIGON (AP) — Fifteen prominent Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish religious leaders, here to survey the Vietnam war, today urged President Johnson to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and de-escalate the ground war in the South.

Tornado Data To Be Presented

A film and discussion on tornadoes will be presented by Leonard Hand, Federal Weather Bureau forecaster from the University of Missouri Delta Research Center at Portageville Monday at 7:30 p.m.

In the police court room here.

The meeting is to inform interested persons and tornado spotters on what to note and how to report tornadoes.

This meeting is sponsored by the Sikeston auxiliary police civil defense unit. The public is invited.

$328,947 Grant Reported

In a published report U.S. Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long announced the U.S. office of education has approved $24.6 million for Missouri programs designed to assist the education of children from low income families.

Scott County will receive $328,947 in direct grants to local education agencies, the report stated.

In addition the county will benefit from funds allocated to the state for handicapped children, juvenile delinquents, neglected children and children of migratory workers, it continued.

Sixty eight training centers for the mentally retarded including one in Sikeston also are to be aided, the report said.

First Aid Course Free

The Red Cross First Aid course to be offered as one of the adult evening education classes starting Monday at Sikeston high school is free.

The only charge involved is 75 cents for a book. It was incorrectly stated in an advertisement in Friday's Standard that the course cost 75 cents per hour.

The free course is one of 28 being offered during the spring semester. For information call the vocational office at 471-5440.

Oran Given $4,000 Grant

ORAN - The department of housing and urban development at Washington has approved a $4,000 public works planning advance to the city of Oran for planning a sewage collection system.

The announcement was made by Sen. Stuart Symington in Washington.

Voters last fall approved a $75,000 bond issue, with $60,000 to be used for the system. The other $15,000 was for purchase of a new fire truck.

Construction on the system is expected to begin in the spring, city clerk Martin Menz said. The project is an exntesion of the present system to the southwest part of the city.

C. R. Trooter and Associates of Dexter are the engineers.

Woman Injured In Car Crash

NEW MADRID - Mrs. Emma Baird, 47, wife of Francis Baird, was injured in a car accident on North Main street Friday at 1:05 p.m.

Baird stopped to let his wife out to enter a beauty parlor. As she was getting out of the car, a 1960 Cadillac driven by David Robinson, 26, New Madrid, struck the rear of the Baird car, causing Mrs. Baird to fall to the pavement.

She suffered possible cracked ribs and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

President Lyndon B. Johnson's state of the union message was a grim, gloomy presentation that pleased no one.

Even the timing was ominous.

It came soon after Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Great Britain announced the dismantlement of the British Empire--withdrawal of armed forces from the Far East and Persian Gulf.

Apart from putting the United States alone in supplying any world leadership with muscle, the British example gives no comfort to the state of the union.

The British have been down the glory road of world leadership. They have sampled socialism. The pound has been devalued and the nation is nearly broke. The British now are forced to pull in their oars in the interest of national solvency, the dreams of empire evaporated.

They are due great credit because they have accepted wage and profits control and have endured hardship and austerity, which Americans haven't either the courage or disposition to accept.

This county has not faced up to its problems.

The United States today is overextended at home and abroad.

The Johnson formula as unfolded in his state of the union speech piles on new spending programs although not at quite the breathtaking rate of the early days trimmed no sail, only added cargo.

He has called for a $10.4 billion boost in spending to finance existing programs. This will skyrocket the 1969 budget to a record $186 billion with a built-in minimum $8 billion deficit. The deficit will be much greater if the Congress doesn't approve an increase in the federal income tax.

The outlook for the tax increase is cloudy.

Johnson failed to persuade Congress to approve it in the last session. In his state of the union speech he did not meet the earlier demands of Chairman Wilbur Mills of the house ways and means committee to substantially reduce spending as a condition for Mills' approval of Johnson's tax increase proposal.

The Johnson position in the Vietnam conflict has the sympathetic understanding of a majority of the American people but his insistence on an expanding guns and butter policy doesn't make sense.

It is not good politics to drive this country into insolvency, endangering the dollar and further lowering confidence by which the United States is held by other countries throughout the world.

Great Britain has shown this country the direction not to travel.

Yet President Johnson proposes to send the nation hurdling down the track of fiscal irresponsibility with more inflation, tighter money, higher interest rates and other economic headaches down the road.

The biggest offender in the inflationary outlook is the federal government, which is spending more and more while asking the private sector of the economy to restrain itself.

It doesn't make sense.

The only hope is that Congress will apply restraint but its record already is bad as it is confronted with a presidential election year.

The Editor enjoyed a visit with Dan Miles, administrative assistant to Sen. Ed Long.

We did not discuss politics.

We discussed newspaper business as he is a newspaper man, and he knew, as does the Senator, that we were not an admirer nor supporter of Long.

Dan is a mighty fine man with a wonderful family.

We look for him to be back in the newspaper business come January 1969.

FINANCE IS SOMETHING we do not understand, so the devaluation of the English pound has little significance to us. As a youth we were told it was worth about $5 and we wondered why they would call it a pound unless maybe five silver dollars weighed a pound. Then it dropped down to about $3 and now it is worth only $2.40. But our dollar is not worth what it was when we were a boy, nor will it buy today even what it would last year. On the other hand, it is a lot easier to get a dollar today than it was when we were a boy. No silver coins are made anymore, yet when we were young there were both gold and silver coins. As recently as about 15 years ago, we were in Salt Lake City and took a taxi from the hotel to the airport. It was only a short distance and the fare was less than a dollar but we had nothing smaller than a $10 bill. We got back nine silver dollars in our change. Shelbina Democrat

The National Association of Manufacturers says: "Attacks on advertising are nothing new, and they are being refuted effectively as they come up. For years critics have been claiming that advertising corrupts the public taste, that it is useless and unnecessary. Others contend that it weakens competition by developing consumer loyalty for particular products and companies. This would seem to indicate that some firms are more successful in their advertising than others. There is overwhelming evidence that advertising serves the public well as it carries out its essential purpose of informing consumers of the choices open to them. Any impairment of the channels conveying such information could damage the interest of the consuming public."

ANOTHER FARM BOYCOTT

Farmers are individualists. People can eat just so much food, no matter how much money they have. These two facts explain why attempts to boost farm prices by collectively withholding commodities from the market invariably fail. Nevertheless, the militant National farmers organization began a nationwide grain-holding campaign on Jan. 11. Later, the NFO will ask farmers to withhold also their meat and dairy products.

Holdback operations have been tried before. The price of the affected commodity rises as the supply shrinks. At some point, however, certain farmers cannot resist the temptation to market their produce at the higher prices. More resolute farmers eventually follow suit. And then the market boycott is broken.

As in the past, farmers this year have been victimized by their own efficiency as agricultural producers. The 1967 harvest in this country broke all records, with soybean and grain-sorghum production showing gains of more than 40 per cent above the average 1961-65 yield. These gains were achieved despite a steadily dwindling number of people actively engaged in farming.

Falling farm prices is in a presidential election year always add up to trouble for the party in power. The Johnson administration has reduced federally subsidized grain acreage for 1968, and higher feed-grain subsidies should add about $1 billion to over-all farm income. But inflation is expected to offset this increase.

One of the big clothing manufacturers employs a staff of experts whose job is to teach his customers modern accounting and merchandising methods. He shows merchants how to keep books, how to control their inventory, how to stimulate sales, how to advertise.

As his customers become more prosperous, this manufacturer enjoys a larger volume of business and improves his position.

This is the kind of service that gives a fine satisfaction to those businessmen who insist that life shall bring them something more than a trading profit. The man who conducts his enterprise for the public good, and not exclusively for profit, enjoys a spiritual glow that is a source of greater happiness than a bulging bank account. Fortunately those men who do not grasp too greedily for a profit frequently find at the end of the year that they have been more handsomely rewarded than their self-centered competitors. This is a happy situation, since it affords a sound basis for the expansion of the cooperative spirit in business.

TV POLLS -- A GIMMICK

More and more television stations are getting into the poll-taking act. These phone-in polls are meaningless at best.

They are meaningless because they ignore the basic requirement of an opinion survey -- that it include a representative cross-section of the public. The announced results do not indicate how many people participated, nor what their religious, ethnic, political, income, professinal or age groupings were.

Neither do they make provision for the "don't knows" and "don't cares". There is nothing to prevent a person from "voting" twice or any number of times. There is nothing to prevent some minority pressure group, with a vital interest in a particular issue, from deluging a station with calls, thus making it appear that more people think a certain way than is actually the case.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY:

Admirals steer a straight navy line; stripped Arnheiter of command without hearing; his champion lost well-earned battleship command.

WASHINGTON -- Of all the brass hats and bureaucrats who abound in Washington, the most hard-headed are the admirals, who can be neither budged by superiors nor bestirred by subordinates from the straight navy line.

The admirals' clique has resisted just about every naval innovation since the sailing ship. It took the intervention of congress, for example, to compel the navy to build aircraft carriers and, later, atomic submarines.

Maverick Adm. Hyman Rickover, the sometimes cantankerous son of a polish pants presser, was consigned to a reconditioned ladies' toilet during his work on nuclear power. The admirals actually tried to drum him out of the navy before he could complete the first atomic sub. Only repeated blasts in this column, plus the intervention of Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., persuaded then-Secretary of the Navy Robert Anderson to overrule the admirals.

Even after the world's first atomic sub was completed, the admirals circulated a memorandum charging that it was merely a showpiece whose delicate equipment wouldn't work at high speeds. They turned out to be embarrassingly wrong; yet, rather than confess error, they tried again to block the promotion of the man who had them look foolish.

Six years ago, this column took up the cry of another junior officer, Lt. Marcus Arnheiter, who warned that the admirals were neglecting anti-submarine warfare. He wrote an article charging that our defenses against Soviet submarines were disastrously inadequate. The navy suppressed the article, but we revealed the facts that had been suppressed.

WRONG AGAIN

Once again the admirals were proved to be wrong, and congress compelled the navy to strengthen our anti-submarine force.

When Arnheiter subsequently was criticized by his junior officers aboard the radar picket ship Vance, the admirals sided with the junior officers and stripped Arnheiter of his command without a formal hearing. This was a violation of naval regulations, but the admirals supported one another all the way up the line to the chief of naval operations, Admiral Thomas Moorer.

We blasted the lid off the Arnheiter case a year ago. But unlike Anderson, who had the courage to stand up for Rickover, Secretary of the Navy Paul Ignatius sided with the admirals against the outcast, Arnheiter, who asked for nothing more than the formal hearing he had been denied.

Only one courageous officer, Capt. Richard Alexander, refused to remain silent. He protested in a 27-page memo to Ignatius against the raw deal given to Arnheiter. For his efforts he was dressed down by Admiral Moorer personally, and pressured to resign his command of the world's only battleship, the USS New Jersey, before it could leave the Philadelphia shipyard for combat duty. He had been given the command in the first place because of a brilliant career, which he has now sacrificed for the sake of navy justice.

Ignatius, fronting again for the admirals, has now widened the credibility gap by insisting in a letter to Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., that there is no relationship between Alexander's abrupt transfer to the Boston Boondocks and his stand on the Arnheiter case.

Resnick called Ignatius' incredible letter "a bare-faced fairy tale" and set out to prove it. He has already received some blunt infomration from Vice Adm. T. G. W. Settle (Ret.), who had been asked by the navy to review the Arheiter case.

"In view of the fact," wrote Resnick, "that Captain Alexander was invited by the secretary of the navy to express his views of the Arheiter case, and that the secretary sent his own plane to bring Captain Alexander to Washington, do you think that Captain Alexander acted improperly as expressing his views as candidly as he did?"

ONE ADMIRAL DISAGREES

Replied Admiral Settle: "He (Alexander) would have been derelict in his duties as a naval officer and derelict to his oath of office had he failed to express himself candidly as he did."

"Is it normal in the navy," asked Resnick, "for an officer to request transfer from command of a battleship, before going to sea, in order to accept a more obscure assignment?"

"Certainly not," answered Settle. "It can only occur under duress."

"Oh you consider that Captain Alexander's transfer is, in effect, a punitive action?" asked the congressman.

"Yes," said Settle, "obviously."

"If it is punitive," pressed Resnick, "why do you think the navy took such action?"

"As a logical follow-up step," replied the Admiral, "in sweeping under the rug the series of command bungles, starting with rear Admiral Irvine's and rear Admiral King's flagrant flouting of navy regulations and military ethics in their relief of Arnheiter from command of the Vance. Instead of the navy admitting a mistake and redressing it, the navy has sought to 'cover up,' to 'snow under' congressional and press inquiries, and to obscure the core issue with smoke screens of distorted collateral issues."

"In your opinion," asked Resnick, "what will be the long-term effect of the navy's handling of this case on morale, effectiveness, discipline and sature of commanding officers?"

"The long-term effect, as well as short-term, if the Arnheiter - Alexander precedents stand," said Settle, "will be to erode the Esprit De Corps, the discipline, the combat effectiveness of our military services. I am a third general military careerist. But had the Arnheiter - Alexander debacle happened when I was a youngster, I would not have jeopardized myself by becoming a professional. My sensing of the consensus in our fleet, in our wardrooms, is that the navy is no longer a 'safe harbor' for officers with guts and forthrightness."

An Editors Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE CHURCH MILITANT

IF FERVOR were the same as wisdom, and commotion in the name of God the same as godliness, then the religious wars of the 16th century should have greatly ennobled the world.

Unfortunately, the altars were stained with honest human blood and the inquisitions led man to treat man with unspeakable savagery.

The point should never be forgotten. The man of religion has no more right to take leave of his brains than the businessman or the politician. There is no heaven-sent dispensation for churchly idiocy. All human beings must be prepared to answer for their mistakes. The clergyman cannot demand absolution on the grounds that, if he loused things up, he did it in the interest of the soul.

IN A RECENT issue of The Christian Advocate the Rev. Charles M. Crowe, retired pastor of the Wilmette, Ill., Parish Methodist Church, raises some questions about the "new militancy" of many ministers. He says: "Too many preachers seem to feel it's a necessary part of the ministry to go on tangents in search of an illusory Promised Land. . .They claim divine authority to proclaim that the total gospel for our time lies in the areas of civil rights, urban renewal, a guaranteed annaul income, school integration, pacifism, open housing and assorted arbitrary remedies for the social ills of our day."

Rev. Crowe wonders about "preachers who think that the more resistance they stir up, the stronger is their witness."

He suggests: "The gods of big government, civil disobedience, United Nations and the new morality have feet of clay. In the meantime the moral fabric of our society has been torn asunder and a secularized church is baffled before the evil of our time."

I HAVE been reading a curious pamphlet, entitled "Focus on the White Liberal," just published by the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. It is written by Donald Black, associate general secretary of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission. Mr. Black's target is the Eastman Kodak Co. of Rochester. He concedes that Eastman has tried hard to put qualified Negroes in good jobs. Failing to find enough candidates, Eastman set up pre-apprentice courses. At a meeting between Eastman officials and the militant outfit called FIGHT, Mr. Black admits that Eastman people were in every way polite while FIGHT representatives were "aggressive, unsophisticated, rude at points, disruptive, unreasonable, etc."

But all Mr. Black's scorn is for Eastman, none for FIGHT. He snorts at "traditional concepts of 'qualified.'"

"It may be that there are only two roads for American society to travel," writes Mr. Black, "--the disorder and destruction of riot, or the smooth smothering of human dignity which now prevails. . .Today a decision against a revolutionary way of action is in reality a decision for reactionary forms of society."

I AM intrigued, also, by an outline just received from the Episcopal Church concerning its plans for funneling $3 million into "organizations of the poor," part to be spent on "priorities they, themselves, have set."

While the church says it will give nothing to groups which advocate violence, it adds: "neither the Episcopal Church, nor the Executive Council or any officer or agency thereof, shall undertake to exercise any supervision or control whatsoever over any grant once made, or the administration and execution thereof by the recipient, or the ends and purposes sought to be attained thereby."

"Priorities of the poor" has a fine alliterative ring. But in riots there seem to be more liquor stores broken into than bookstores.

Father James Groppe, the Pied Piper of Milwaukee, is certainly leading his children around in vigorous marches. But marching is not enough. The direction of the march is a proper public concern. Does it lead toward the promised fairyland or just into the mountain?

THE CHURCH Militant is as legitimate as the Church Contemplative. Jesus drove the moneychangers from the temple. But his militancy was both reasoned and selective. He didn't drive everyone out of the temple or burn the temple down to cleanse it.

If, in their quest for social justice, some churchmen come up with double standards of behavior that produce hatred and backlash on the one hand and violence and irresponsibility on the other, they cannot plead innocent on account of deep spiritual feeling. No one has a right to rip up the fabric of society and law in an activism that may be essentially an effort to exercise one's own personal devils.

The sociological theories of a church leader are just as subject to public examination as those of any other influential citizen. Zeal is less worshipful than common sense.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

JOHNNY DIO'S BUDDIES

Ex-Convicts Whip Up Own 'Labor's Non-Partisan League' As Respectable Front to Snare Public Officials.

New York: -- Until recently some of this state's prominent political personalities sat haunch, paunch and jowl alongside associates of Cosa Nostra characters now involved in a murderous scandal.

The politicians rushed to accept banquet invitations simply because the engraved cards were lettered with the magic words: "Labor's Non-Partisan League." These men, who will not be identified here simply because they went unwittingly and thus chanced compromising several national leaders who are in the U.S. presidential race, should have checked out their hosts.

They'd have found that this particular Labor's Non-Partisan League of New York State, headquarted in a Long Island suburb, was a handy business nurtured by friends, patrons and proteges of the Three - Finger Brown Luchese Cosa Nostra establishment.

As usual these days, the Cosa Nostra's business agents on this account were Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi and Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo. Each generation has its deadly names. Ducks and Dio are this season's gifts of the Mafia.

Had those political officials who were "honored" by sitting on the dais at recent banquets checked out the names on the "Labor's Non-Partisan League" stationery, they'd have seen the black hand of the crowd which sets up local unions and buys and sells them much as one does a corner drug store.

This being the political season, now is just the time for the politicos of all parties everywhere, and the leaders of legitimate labor non - partisan leagues everywhere, to study this profile in craftiness.

On this labor league's letterhead was the name of Arthur Santa Maria. The federal records reveal that he was the secretary - treasurer and boss of something onece called Local 227, UAW-AFL (not to be confused with the Detroit UAW).

During the Senate rackets probe at least one senator and the chief counsel put into the record their belief that Santa Maria was sponsored by Johnny Dio. At- that time this ex-convict (now facing another five-year pen term) was UAW-AFL regional director.

In typical, terse fashion, Sen. Mundt said, ". . .Arthur. . .Santa Maria (was) brought into the labor movement by Johnny Dio."

Chief Counsel Robert Kennedy said: "Dio had this close relationship with Arthur Santa Maria. In fact, he placed him in business."

At least $22,000 disappeared from the Local 227 treasury. So did $50,000 vanish from another union led by Joseph Scalza, also a Labor's Non-Partisan League convicted of embezzlement but that did not stop him later from trying to move in on unions in the bowling alley business, toy shops, and retail establishments. He also served as chairman of the league's House Committee.

Who then placed such men on the board, or whatever it really is, of this do-it-yourself political league with headquarters in the office of a project called Local 350, of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union?

Obviously it had to be the president of the non - partisan league, also president of the local, and until the other day president of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers First District Council covering some of the industry in New York and New Jersey (not to be mistaken for the American Bakery and Confectionery Workers AFL-CIO).

This multipresident, "Danny" J. Motto, also owns a trotter racing stable, and a $57,500 mansion in fashionable Greenwich, Conn. It all has a musical comedy touch. He did it on a salary of $13,250 from Local 350, a union of less than 600 members with a dues take of some $55,000 annually.

How did "Danny" boy -- who is now deep in the big city-shaking water department scandal -- do it?

It all goes back to some 20 years ago, when this man, with a racket conviction behind him, decided he needed a respectable base. So he moved in on a tiny bakery local.

He picked up the frightened little fellows, the porters, the cleaners in pickle plants and potato chip factories, the box handlers who could not get into the skilled bakery craft unions. He even went after some Chinese food processors -- and dropped one "t" from his name so he could sound like Mr. Moto, a Chinese, on the phone to prospective members.

Thus he was able to pick up 575 members and get himself some credentials to the national conventions. With the help of his friends he threw his weight around.

Then they organized the labor league. They set it up in the now heavily investigated Local 350 offices. Obviously such an enterprise, which ran such banquets and endorsed such candidates, had to have lesss austere quarters. So last year they borrowed money, bought real estate and prepared to put up a building of their own.

At this point they found themselves involved in the big scandal. Mr. Motto was indicted on charges of "interstate conspiracy involving kickback in the New York City public water works contract."

One of the highest government racket - busting officials tells this correspondent that "the whole thing now is hotter than a pistol at high noon. We don't know where this criss-crossing scandal and investigation will lead."

Well, the least the citizenry can expect is that such "labor" operations and political leagues be x-rayed and exposed before they can go "legitimate" as a front for the mobs.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

President Lyndon B. Johnson's state of the union message was a grim, gloomy presentation that pleased no one.

Even the timing was ominous.

It came soon after Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Great Britain announced the dismantlement of the British Empire--withdrawal of armed forces from the Far East and Persian Gulf.

Apart from putting the United States alone in supplying any world leadership with muscle, the British example gives no comfort to the state of the union.

The British have been down the glory road of world leadership. They have sampled socialism. The pound has been devalued and the nation is nearly broke. The British now are forced to pull in their oars in the interest of national solvency, the dreams of empire evaporated.

They are due great credit because they have accepted wage and profits control and have endured hardship and austerity, which Americans haven't either the courage or disposition to accept.

This county has not faced up to its problems.

The United States today is overextended at home and abroad.

The Johnson formula as unfolded in his state of the union speech piles on new spending programs although not at quite the breathtaking rate of the early days trimmed no sail, only added cargo.

He has called for a $10.4 billion boost in spending to finance existing programs. This will skyrocket the 1969 budget to a record $186 billion with a built-in minimum $8 billion deficit. The deficit will be much greater if the Congress doesn't approve an increase in the federal income tax.

The outlook for the tax increase is cloudy.

Johnson failed to persuade Congress to approve it in the last session. In his state of the union speech he did not meet the earlier demands of Chairman Wilbur Mills of the house ways and means committee to substantially reduce spending as a condition for Mills' approval of Johnson's tax increase proposal.

The Johnson position in the Vietnam conflict has the sympathetic understanding of a majority of the American people but his insistence on an expanding guns and butter policy doesn't make sense.

It is not good politics to drive this country into insolvency, endangering the dollar and further lowering confidence by which the United States is held by other countries throughout the world.

Great Britain has shown this country the direction not to travel.

Yet President Johnson proposes to send the nation hurdling down the track of fiscal irresponsibility with more inflation, tighter money, higher interest rates and other economic headaches down the road.

The biggest offender in the inflationary outlook is the federal government, which is spending more and more while asking the private sector of the economy to restrain itself.

It doesn't make sense.

The only hope is that Congress will apply restraint but its record already is bad as it is confronted with a presidential election year.

We did not discuss politics.

We discussed newspaper business as he is a newspaper man, and he knew, as does the Senator, that we were not an admirer nor supporter of Long.

Dan is a mighty fine man with a wonderful family.

We look for him to be back in the newspaper business come January 1969.

FINANCE IS SOMETHING we do not understand, so the devaluation of the English pound has little significance to us. As a youth we were told it was worth about $5 and we wondered why they would call it a pound unless maybe five silver dollars weighed a pound. Then it dropped down to about $3 and now it is worth only $2.40. But our dollar is not worth what it was when we were a boy, nor will it buy today even what it would last year. On the other hand, it is a lot easier to get a dollar today than it was when we were a boy. No silver coins are made anymore, yet when we were young there were both gold and silver coins. As recently as about 15 years ago, we were in Salt Lake City and took a taxi from the hotel to the airport. It was only a short distance and the fare was less than a dollar but we had nothing smaller than a $10 bill. We got back nine silver dollars in our change. Shelbina Democrat

The National Association of Manufacturers says: "Attacks on advertising are nothing new, and they are being refuted effectively as they come up. For years critics have been claiming that advertising corrupts the public taste, that it is useless and unnecessary. Others contend that it weakens competition by developing consumer loyalty for particular products and companies. This would seem to indicate that some firms are more successful in their advertising than others. There is overwhelming evidence that advertising serves the public well as it carries out its essential purpose of informing consumers of the choices open to them. Any impairment of the channels conveying such information could damage the interest of the consuming public."

ANOTHER FARM BOYCOTT

Farmers are individualists. People can eat just so much food, no matter how much money they have. These two facts explain why attempts to boost farm prices by collectively withholding commodities from the market invariably fail. Nevertheless, the militant National farmers organization began a nationwide grain-holding campaign on Jan. 11. Later, the NFO will ask farmers to withhold also their meat and dairy products.

Holdback operations have been tried before. The price of the affected commodity rises as the supply shrinks. At some point, however, certain farmers cannot resist the temptation to market their produce at the higher prices. More resolute farmers eventually follow suit. And then the market boycott is broken.

As in the past, farmers this year have been victimized by their own efficiency as agricultural producers. The 1967 harvest in this country broke all records, with soybean and grain-sorghum production showing gains of more than 40 per cent above the average 1961-65 yield. These gains were achieved despite a steadily dwindling number of people actively engaged in farming.

Falling farm prices is in a presidential election year always add up to trouble for the party in power. The Johnson administration has reduced federally subsidized grain acreage for 1968, and higher feed-grain subsidies should add about $1 billion to over-all farm income. But inflation is expected to offset this increase.

One of the big clothing manufacturers employs a staff of experts whose job is to teach his customers modern accounting and merchandising methods. He shows merchants how to keep books, how to control their inventory, how to stimulate sales, how to advertise.

As his customers become more prosperous, this manufacturer enjoys a larger volume of business and improves his position.

This is the kind of service that gives a fine satisfaction to those businessmen who insist that life shall bring them something more than a trading profit. The man who conducts his enterprise for the public good, and not exclusively for profit, enjoys a spiritual glow that is a source of greater happiness than a bulging bank account. Fortunately those men who do not grasp too greedily for a profit frequently find at the end of the year that they have been more handsomely rewarded than their self-centered competitors. This is a happy situation, since it affords a sound basis for the expansion of the cooperative spirit in business.

TV POLLS -- A GIMMICK

More and more television stations are getting into the poll-taking act. These phone-in polls are meaningless at best.

They are meaningless because they ignore the basic requirement of an opinion survey -- that it include a representative cross-section of the public. The announced results do not indicate how many people participated, nor what their religious, ethnic, political, income, professinal or age groupings were.

Neither do they make provision for the "don't knows" and "don't cares". There is nothing to prevent a person from "voting" twice or any number of times. There is nothing to prevent some minority pressure group, with a vital interest in a particular issue, from deluging a station with calls, thus making it appear that more people think a certain way than is actually the case.

An Editors Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE CHURCH MILITANT

IF FERVOR were the same as wisdom, and commotion in the name of God the same as godliness, then the religious wars of the 16th century should have greatly ennobled the world.

Unfortunately, the altars were stained with honest human blood and the inquisitions led man to treat man with unspeakable savagery.

The point should never be forgotten. The man of religion has no more right to take leave of his brains than the businessman or the politician. There is no heaven-sent dispensation for churchly idiocy. All human beings must be prepared to answer for their mistakes. The clergyman cannot demand absolution on the grounds that, if he loused things up, he did it in the interest of the soul.

IN A RECENT issue of The Christian Advocate the Rev. Charles M. Crowe, retired pastor of the Wilmette, Ill., Parish Methodist Church, raises some questions about the "new militancy" of many ministers. He says: "Too many preachers seem to feel it's a necessary part of the ministry to go on tangents in search of an illusory Promised Land. . .They claim divine authority to proclaim that the total gospel for our timelies in the areas of civil rights, urban renewal, a guaranteed annaul income, school integration, pacifism, open housing and assorted arbitrary remedies for the social ills of our day."

Rev. Crowe wonders about "preachers who think that the more resistance they stir up, the stronger is their witness."

He suggests: "The gods of big government, civil disobedience, United Nations and the new morality have feet of clay. In the meantime the moral fabric of our society has been torn asunder and a secularized church is baffled before the evil of our time."

I HAVE been reading a curious pamphlet, entitled "Focus on the White Liberal," just published by the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. It is written by Donald Black, associate general secretary of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission. Mr. Black's target is the Eastman Kodak Co. of Rochester. He concedes that Eastman has tried hard to put qualified Negroes in good jobs. Failing to find enough candidates, Eastman set up pre-apprentice courses. At a meeting between Eastman officials and the militant outfit called FIGHT, Mr. Black admits that Eastman people were in every way polite while FIGHT representatives were "aggressive, unsophisticated, rude at points, disruptive, unreasonable, etc."

But all Mr. Black's scorn is for Eastman, none for FIGHT. He snorts at "traditional concepts of 'qualified.'"

"It may be that there are only two roads for American society to travel," writes Mr. Black, "--the disorder and destruction of riot, or the smooth smothering of human dignity which now prevails. . .Today a decision against a revolutionary way of action is in reality a decision for reactionary forms of society."

I AM intrigued, also, by an outline just received from the Episcopal Church concerning its plans for funneling $3 million into "organizations of the poor," part to be spent on "priorities they, themselves, have set."

While the church says it will give nothing to groups which advocate violence, it adds: "neither the Episcopal Church, nor the Executive Council or any officer or agency thereof, shall undertake to exercise any supervision or control whatsoever over any grant once made, or the administration and execution thereof by the recipient, or the ends and purposes sought to be attained thereby."

"Priorities of the poor" has a fine alliterative ring. But in riots there seem to be more liquor stores broken into than bookstores.

Father James Groppe, the Pied Piper of Milwaukee, is certainly leading his children around in vigorous marches. But marching is not enough. The direction of the march is a proper public concern. Does it lead toward the promised fairyland or just into the mountain?

THE CHURCH Militant is as legitimate as the Church Contemplative. Jesus drove the moneychangers from the temple. But his militancy was both reasoned and selective. He didn't drive everyone out of the temple or burn the temple down to cleanse it.

If, in their quest for social justice, some churchmen come up with double standards of behavior that produce hatred and backlash on the one hand and violence and irresponsibility on the other, they cannot plead innocent on account of deep spiritual feeling. No one has a right to rip up the fabric of society and law in an activism that may be essentially an effort to exercise one's own personal devils.

The sociological theories of a church leader are just as subject to public examination as those of any other influential citizen. Zeal is less worshipful than common sense.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY:

Admirals steer a straight navy line; stripped Arnheiter of command without hearing; his champion lost well-earned battleship command.

WASHINGTON -- Of all the brass hats and bureaucrats who abound in Washington, the most hard-headed are the admirals, who can be neither budged by superiors nor bestirred by subordinates from the straight navy line.

The admirals' clique has resisted just about every naval innovation since the sailing ship. It took the intervention of congress, for example, to compel the navy to build aircraft carriers and, later, atomic submarines.

Maverick Adm. Hyman Rickover, the sometimes cantankerous son of a polish pants presser, was consigned to a reconditioned ladies' toilet during his work on nuclear power. The admirals actually tried to drum him out of the navy before he could complete the first atomic sub. Only repeated blasts in this column, plus the intervention of Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., persuaded then-Secretary of the Navy Robert Anderson to overrule the admirals.

Even after the world's first atomic sub was completed, the admirals circulated a memorandum charging that it was merely a showpiece whose delicate equipment wouldn't work at high speeds. They turned out to be embarrassingly wrong; yet, rather than confess error, they tried again to block the promotion of the man who had them look foolish.

Six years ago, this column took up the cry of another junior officer, Lt. Marcus Arnheiter, who warned that the admirals were neglecting anti-submarine warfare. He wrote an article charging that our defenses against Soviet submarines were disastrously inadequate. The navy suppressed the article, but we revealed the facts that had been suppressed.

WRONG AGAIN

Once again the admirals were proved to be wrong, and congress compelled the navy to strengthen our anti-submarine force.

When Arnheiter subsequently was criticized by his junior officers aboard the radar picket ship Vance, the admirals sided with the junior officers and stripped Arnheiter of his command without a formal hearing. This was a violation of naval regulations, but the admirals supported one another all the way up the line to the chief of naval operations, Admiral Thomas Moorer.

We blasted the lid off the Arnheiter case a year ago. But unlike Anderson, who had the courage to stand up for Rickover, Secretary of the Navy Paul Ignatius sided with the admirals against the outcast, Arnheiter, who asked for nothing more than the formal hearing he had been denied.

Only one courageous officer, Capt. Richard Alexander, refused to remain silent. He protested in a 27-page memo to Ignatius against the raw deal given to Arnheiter. For his efforts he was dressed down by Admiral Moorer personally, and pressured to resign his command of the world's only battleship, the USS New Jersey, before it could leave the Philadelphia shipyard for combat duty. He had been given the command in the first place because of a brilliant career, which he has now sacrificed for the sake of navy justice.

Ignatius, fronting again for the admirals, has now widened the credibility gap by insisting in a letter to Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., that there is no relationship between Alexander's abrupt transfer to the Boston Boondocks and his stand on the Arnheiter case.

Resnick called Ignatius' incredible letter "a bare-faced fairy tale" and set out to prove it. He has already received some blunt infomration from Vice Adm. T. G. W. Settle (Ret.), who had been asked by the navy to review the Arheiter case.

"In view of the fact," wrote Resnick, "that Captain Alexander was invited by the secretary of the navy to express his views of the Arheiter case, and that the secretary sent his own plane to bring Captain Alexander to Washington, do you think that Captain Alexander acted improperly as expressing his views as candidly as he did?"

ONE ADMIRAL DISAGREES

Replied Admiral Settle: "He (Alexander) would have been derelict in his duties as a naval officer and derelict to his oath of office had he failed to express himself candidly as he did."

"Is it normal in the navy," asked Resnick, "for an officer to request transfer from command of a battleship, before going to sea, in order to accept a more obscure assignment?"

"Certainly not," answered Settle. "It can only occur under duress."

"Oh you consider that Captain Alexander's transfer is, in effect, a punitive action?" asked the congressman.

"Yes," said Settle, "obviously."

"If it is punitive," pressed Resnick, "why do you think the navy took such action?"

"As a logical follow-up step," replied the Admiral, "in sweeping under the rug the series of command bungles, starting with rear Admiral Irvine's and rear Admiral King's flagrant flouting of navy regulations and military ethics in their relief of Arnheiter from command of the Vance. Instead of the navy admitting a mistake and redressing it, the navy has sought to 'cover up,' to 'snow under' congressional and press inquiries, and to obscure the core issue with smoke screens of distorted collateral issues."

"In your opinion," asked Resnick, "what will be the long-term effect of the navy's handling of this case on morale, effectiveness, discipline and sature of commanding officers?"

"The long-term effect, as well as short-term, if the Arnheiter - Alexander precedents stand," said Settle, "will be to erode the Esprit De Corps, the discipline, the combat effectiveness of our military services. I am a third general military careerist. But had the Arnheiter - Alexander debacle happened when I was a youngster, I would not have jeopardized myself by becoming a professional. My sensing of the consensus in our fleet, in our wardrooms, is that the navy is no longer a 'safe harbor' for officers with guts and forthrightness."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

JOHNNY DIO'S BUDDIES

Ex-Convicts Whip Up Own 'Labor's Non-Partisan League' As Respectable Front to Snare Public Officials.

New York: -- Until recently some of this state's prominent political personalities sat haunch, paunch and jowl alongside associates of Cosa Nostra characters now involved in a murderous scandal.

The politicians rushed to accept banquet invitations simply because the engraved cards were lettered with the magic words: "Labor's Non-Partisan League." These men, who will not be identified here simply because they went unwittingly and thus chanced compromising several nationa leaders who are in the U.S. presidential race, should have checked out their hosts.

They'd have found that this particular Labor's Non-Partisan League of New York State, headquarted in a Long Island suburb, was a handy business nurtured by friends, patrons and proteges of the Three - Finger Brown Luchese Cosa Nostra establishment.

As usual these days, the Cosa Nostra's business agents on this account were Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi and Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo. Each generation has its deadly names. Ducks and Dio are this season's gifts of the Mafia.

Had those political officials who were "honored" by sitting on the dais at recent banquets checked out the names on the "Labor's Non-Partisan League" stationery, they'd have seen the black hand of the crowd which sets up local unions and buys and sells them much as one does a corner drug store.

This being the political season, now is just the time for the politicos of all parties everywhere, and the leaders of legitimate labor non - partisan leagues everywhere, to study this profile in craftiness.

On this labor league's letterhead was the name of Arthur Santa Maria. The federal records reveal that he was the secretary - treasurer and boss of something onece called Local 227, UAW-AFL (not to be confused with the Detroit UAW).

During the Senate rackets probe at least one senator and the chief counsel put into the record their belief that Santa Maria was sponsored by Johnny Dio. At- that time this ex-convict (now facing another five-year pen term) was UAW-AFL regional director.

In typical, terse fashion, Sen. Mundt said, ". . .Arthur. . .Santa Maria (was) brought into the labor movement by Johnny Dio."

Chief Counsel Robert Kennedy said: "Dio had this close relationship with Arthur Santa Maria. In fact, he placed him in business."

At least $22,000 disappeared from the Local 227 treasury. So did $50,000 vanish from another union led by Joseph Scalza, also a Labor's Non-Partisan League Letterhead official. Scalza was convicted of embezzlement but that did not stop him later from trying to move in on unions in the bowling alley business, toy shops, and retail establishments. He also served as chairman of the league's House Committee.

Who then placed such men on the board, or whatever it really is, of this do-it-yourself political league with headquarters in the office of a project called Local 350, of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union?

Obviously it had to be the president of the non - partisan league, also president of the local, and until the other day president of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers First District Council covering some of the industry in New York and New Jersey (not to be mistaken for the American Bakery and Confectionery Workers AFL-CIO).

This multipresident, "Danny" J. Motto, also owns a trotter racing stable, and a $57,500 mansion in fashionable Greenwich, Conn. It all has a musical comedy touch. He did it on a salary of $13,250 from Local 350, a union of less than 600 members with a dues take of some $55,000 annually.

How did "Danny" boy -- who is now deep in the big city-shaking water department scandal -- do it?

It all goes back to some 20 years ago, when this man, with a racket conviction behind him, decided he needed a respectable base. So he moved in on a tiny bakery local.

He picked up the frightened little fellows, the porters, the cleaners in pickle plants and potato chip factories, the box handlers who could not get into the skilled bakery craft unions. He even went after some Chinese food processors -- and dropped one "t" from his name so he could sound like Mr. Moto, a Chinese, on the phone to prospective members.

Thus he was able to pick up 575 members and get himself some credentials to the national conventions. With the help of his friends he threw his weight around.

Then they organized the labor league. They set it up in the now heavily investigated Local 350 offices. Obviously such an enterprise, which ran such banquets and endorsed such candidates, had to have lesss austere quarters. So last year they borrowed money, bought real estate and prepared to put up a building of their own.

At this point they found themselves involved in the big scandal. Mr. Motto was indicted on charges of "interstate conspiracy involving kickback in the New York City public water works contract."

One of the highest government racket - busting officials tells this correspondent that "the whole thing now is hotter than a pistol at high noon. We don't know where this criss-crossing scandal and investigation will lead."

Well, the least the citizenry can expect is that such "labor" operations and political leagues be x-rayed and exposed before they can go "legitimate" as a front for the mobs.

Heritage Service Sunday

Sunday at 10:45 a.m. the congregation of First Methodist church will hold a service of heritage. This service is one of several the church is holding in observance of its 100 years of history. Methodism began in Sikeston in 1867 when the Rev. L. F. Aspley, with the assistance of Mrs. Catherine Stallcup Sikes Handy, organized the church and Sunday School in a railroad freight car.

At the service Sunday morning, several groups will be given special recognition. On May 5, 1912, the church held the opening service in the present building and an invitation is extended to everyone in the church and community who was present at that service. Another group to be honored will be those who have had their membership in the church for 50 years or longer.

Assisting in the service Sunday will be Miss Isabel Hess, Charles D. Matthews and George Kirk.

The offertory will be sung by a quartet composed W. W. Wilkison, Robert Summers, Earl Braswell and Judson Boardman.

The pastor, the Rev. Joseph H. Wagner, will preach on the subject, "This Too, We Remember."

Kewanee WSCS Meets Wednesday

KEWANEE - - The Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service met Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the church. Five members and Mrs. Billy Secoy, the new minister's wife, attended.

Mrs. H. C. Gill, president, opened the meeting with prayer.

A program designed to show how a commercial film maker can become an ally, not an enemy, of the church was presented with a film, "Selfhood in Contemporary Films!"

Assisting with the program were Mrs. D. C. Berry, Mrs. Mildred Brotherton, Mrs. Fred Hetlage, Mrs. Secoy and Mrs. Edward Lee Hardin.

A report on the lunch stand at a farm sale was given.

The next meeting will be Feb. 14 with Mrs. Brotherton. Mrs. Levi Essary will be program leader.

Summertime Satire On a South Sea Isle

THE PARADISE BIT. By William K. Zinsser. Little, Brown. $5.95.

There is a lot of foolishness in Zinsser's fancy salad of a novel. Intentional foolishness, that is.

The scene is one of those South Pacific havens that hasn't been blighted by civilization—yet. A nice, quiet bit of Polynesian togetherness. It has a comic cartoon type of British governor, Sir Reginale Weems. And it has Denis Foote, who thinks it is a Good Place to Get Away from It All, but doesn't like his job of luring tourists, because he foresees that tourists will ruin everything.

Then comes the big uproar when Mel Parker, a Hollywood press agent and promoter, invades the island group with a scheme to give some lucky, lucky couple their own South Sea island (complete with one ancient palm tree) as a prize in a movie contest.

Somehow Parker has hired a sweet young thing named Sally Merrill, an anthropology major, to be his researcher in this invasion of innocent Polynesia. Sally doesn't know whether she is for or against the Hollywood approach to the South Pacific, especially when she meets good old Denis.

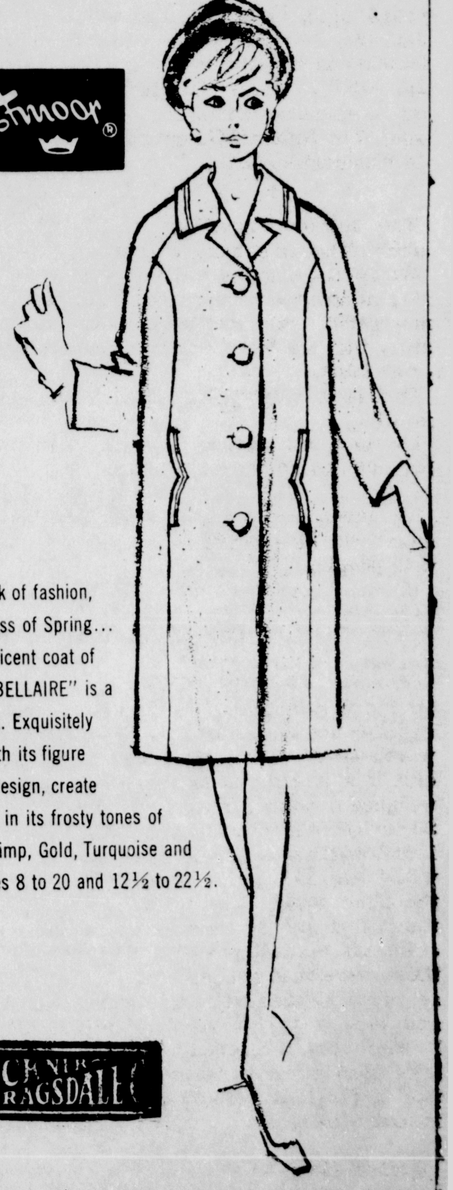

There is a lot of slapstick hoohaw when Parker brings in a planeload of journalists (they're cartoon characters too) to cover the premiere of his movie epic.

This is one of those leisurely, lightweight stories that entertains mildly and pleasantly in between bursts of raucous satire.

George Woods Named Athlete Of LA Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Athlete of the Meet in the annual Los Angeles Invitational indoor track and field show is George Woods, shot putter.

Not the world champion, Randy Matson? Not Tommie Smith, sprinter? Not Bob Seagren, pole vaulter? Not Ralph Boston, long jumper, also world record holder?

No, it was George Woods, who got off a 66-5¾ bomb on his first put and it held up.

Matson? Randy for the first time since he was a freshman at Texas A&M, failed to qualify for the finals. His best was 60-4.

Matson's frustration typified the woes of his fellow champions.

Tommie Smith got off to a bad start and finished third in the 440-yard dash in 50.0 to the 49.5 by winner Jim Kemp of the U.S. Army, formerly of Kentucky State.

Seagren placed second in the pole vault to Erkki Mustakari, of Finland and Fresno State. Both finished at 16-6 but the Finn won on fewer misses.

Bob Beamon of Texas at El Paso, with 26-1¼, beat out Boston's best of 24-10½.

A crowd of 10,182, well under capacity, saw it all in the Sports Arena Friday night.

The winners included football-er Earl McCullouch of Southern Cal in the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.0 flat. A rival football player, Ron Copeland of UCLA, injured his right leg and went out at the third hurdle.

Favored Charlie Greene, ex-Nebraska, had to settle for a tie in the 60-yard dash at 6.1 with John Carlos, while still another USC grid hero, O.J. Simpson, was third in 6.2.

Matson said that when Woods, 24, of the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach, got off his first pop he began to press and could never match the mark. Randy said he wasn't interested in second or third. He wanted to win.

"With my long legs," said Tommie Smith, "if I get off wrong, I'm out of it. That happened. I didn't get a good start."

Boston, asked if there was anything wrong, grinned. "No, just me. I'm just not jumping. But it'll come around."

Woods, 24, a 6-foot, 290-pounder, raised in Sikeston, Mo., and a graduate of Southern Illinois, had a previous best of 64-8 this season.

"I'm happy to win over Randy but I wish he'd had a better night," said the big fellow.

Charleston Turns Back Bell City

BELL CITY — Charleston opened up with a 15-8 first period lead and fought off constant threats in the first half to post a 63-50 basketball win over Bell City's Cubs last night.

Sam Clemons paced the Bluejays winning battle with 19 points while teammate Ruben Brown added 15.

Charleston held a slim 32-30 lead at half and led only a 43-38 lead going into the final period, but the Jays pulled away by rolling up 20 points.

Bell City stayed in contention throughout the game at the free throw line, from where it notched 26 charity shots.

Hawks Notch Eighth

LILBOURN — Wrapping up its New Madrid county conference schedule in high style, the Howardville Hawks shot past crosstown rival Lilbourn last night 82-63 for their fourth basketball win in four days over conference foes. It was their seventh victory against one defeat in league play. They rolled over Gideon 95-73 Thursday night, after beating Parma and Morehouse soundly.

Howardville rolled up its eighth win against four losses and heads into the conference tournament at Matthews with an impressive final four-game group of statistics. The Hawks, seem to have come into their own after a three-week layoff. That ended Tuesday night at Morehouse where the Howardville quintet started its scoring spree that ended with it holding a 105-point-per-game average in its last four games.

Howardville eked into a 15-13 first period lead and held onto it until the final buzzer sounded, adding onto it in each period.

Coach William Jackson's two big 6-7 twin centers rached up 42 points. Ruben Marsh paced the pack with 22 and teammate Lewis Little added 20.

It was the fourth defeat in league play for the Panthers, who have rolled up four wins.

Larry Wolfe topped Lilbourn scorers with 25 points and had teammates Mike Dambach and Harold Allred adding 12 and 10 respectively.

Lilbourn opened the night with a 46-34 win over the Hawks B team. Both enter next week's B team county tournament at New Madrid.

Wiss Provides Spark In Dogs Win

There is always a time for everything and tonight is the time for the Oran Eagles to regain a little revenge and at the same time defend their Scott-Mississippi basketball conference tournament at East Prairie.

Yes. . .that's right they will claim the win. . .Recent illness has seemed to have slowed the Scott County Central Braves since their Cape Girardeau holiday tournament title win.

Here is tonight's calls. . .

Oran 77, Scott County Central 68.

In the B division. . .it'll be the Braves by say 20 or maybe 25 or 30. . .pick your own score.

Finals of the Parma seventh grade tournament are set for tonight and the top two teams of the tourney will do battle for first place as Charleston faces Parma for the title and Poplar Bluff goes against Chaffee in the first game at 6:30.

There are a number of future stars in the tournament and one might just remember a few of those names that were instrumental in Thursday night's first round games. . .

We'll have a tournament all-star team for those of you to clip out Monday and save to see how those boys fair in years to come.

The Conservation Commission today set the 1968 turkey season as April 24 through April 28, from 5 a.m. to noon each day, and said opening of the gun deer season would be Nov. 16 this year and Nov. 15 in 1969.

Closing dates and hours of the deer season will not be announced until later this year. The commission said it set the opening date early to give hunters adequate time to plan their vacations.

The turkey season was reduced two days from last year because of a drop in production, the commission said. Cold and wet weather the past two springs was blamed.

Three counties, Barry, Camden and Osage, were added to the 1967 list of 32 counties where turkey hunting is permitted.

The others are:

Adair, Bollinger, Butler, Callaway, Crawford, Dent, Douglas, Franklin, Gasconade, Hickory, Howell, Iron, Jefferson, Madison, McDonald, Montgomery, Morgan, Ozark, Perry, Phelps, Pulaski, Reynolds, Shannon, Ste. Genevieve, St. Francois, Stone, Taney, Texas, Warren, Washington and Wayne.

MALDEN — The district's fourth rated Sikeston high school Bulldog basketball team found the going against this Class M school tough last night. The Dogs found themselves trailing during most of the game, before pulling out to win 70-63 after its junior varsity suffered an 84-63 beating.

Sikeston, running into a cold shooting night and early foul trouble trailed in the first half by as much as eight to ten points but got its shooting eyes opened in the second half to move out to the win.

Coach N. P. McDaniels' crew struggled against the fired up Malden quintet of Vivan Reed as the Green Wave got some spark from its JV's slashing victory.

Sikeston hit a cold 26 per cent from the field in the first half but regained its pose by clipping along the second at a 46 per cent pace, ending the game at a dismal 34 per cent from the field.

Gary Wiss, the Bulldogs 6-2 leading scorer sat out the majority of the first half with four fouls and had only five points in the first half, but came out the second half to spark the winning surge with six field goals and three free throws before fouling out. He ended with game high honors on eight field goals and four free throws for 20 points.

Malden out-rebounded the injured Bulldogs 45-40 as the Dogs main jumping jack, Fred Townes, grabbed only 14, favoring a back injury sustained early this week in practice.

The scoring of guard Dennis Snelling continued as the 5-8 speedster wheeled for 13 points.

Carl Barnett, returning to action for the first time in a month, collected 10 points after coming off the bench to help in that second half surge.

Sikeston tied the score at 45-45 going into the final period and then ripped out 25 big points to Malden's 18 to take the win.

Bobby Owens paced Malden scorers with 16 points as four Green Wave players hit in double figures.

The Malden junior varsity win was sparked by Carl Holloway's 34 points. Throop, Lambert and Sims shared in the Dogs scoring lead with 12, 12 and 11 points respectively.

Both varsity units enter the Poplar Bluff invitational basketball tournament next week at Poplar Bluff where Sikeston was seeded second and Malden unseeded.

Malden goes against Charleston in the 8:30 p.m. match Monday night while Sikeston starts off Tuesday night's schedule with a 7 p.m. game with Greenville.

Fisk Splits Pair With New Madrid

NEW MADRID — Fisk grabbed the varsity win 50-38 while the Indians junior varsity opened up last night's basketball action with a 34-15 win.

New Madrid ran into a cold shooting night and had trouble with the Pirates' press. The Indians trailed 14-10 at the end of the first period and scored but two points in the second to fall back 26-12 at the half. They opened up somewhat in the second half and took a 26-24 edge in scoring but the damage had been done.

Rick Adams topped Fisk scorers with 15 points and Mike Coulson added 14 while New Madrid failed to get a man in double figures as Ross and St. Mary topped the Indians scoring with eight points each.

Gaddy paced New Madrid's B team to its win with 11 points.

Delta, East Prairie Win Consolations

EAST PRAIRIE — Delta and East Prairie won consolation basketball games in the A and B divisions last night. Delta scurried past Illmo-Scott City 74-54 and East Prairie trimmed Chaffee 54-40.

Championship battles in both the A and B divisions will be played tonight with the first contest starting at 7 p.m. when Scott County Central goes against Delta for the B division title followed at 8:30 p.m. by the Oran-Scott County Central meeting in the A bracket.

Things in the consolation game of the A bracket went as coaches seeded but the B division turned out different as fourth-seeded East Prairie upended third seeded Chaffee.

East Prairie had little trouble in containing the Red Devils as the Eagles rolled up a 30-19 first half lead and then eased into the winners circle behind the scoring leadership of Falkoff, who had 15 points.

Burnett led Chaffee scorers with 18 points.

Delta, with four of its five starters hitting in double figures, rung up a 12-7 first period lead and then cracked open the game with a 48-point second half.

Mobley netted 20 points to top coach Pete Townsend's Bobcat crew while teammate Cook added 17 and two others hit 14 each.

ISC was paced by Dahms and Cummins' 13 points.

Sports Corner

By RON JAYNES

There is always a time for everything and tonight is the time for the Oran Eagles to regain a little revenge and at the same time defend their Scott-Mississippi basketball conference tournament at East Prairie.

Yes. . .that's right they will claim the win. . .Recent illness has seemed to have slowed the Scott County Central Braves since their Cape Girardeau holiday tournament title win.

Here is tonight's calls. . .

Oran 77, Scott County Central 68.

In the B division. . .it'll be the Braves by say 20 or maybe 25 or 30. . .pick your own score.

Finals of the Parma seventh grade tournament are set for tonight and the top two teams of the tourney will do battle for first place as Charleston faces Parma for the title and Poplar Bluff goes against Chaffee in the first game at 6:30.

There are a number of future stars in the tournament and one might just remember a few of those names that were instrumental in Thursday night's first round games. . .

We'll have a tournament all-star team for those of you to clip out Monday and save to see how those boys fair in years to come.

The Conservation Commission today set the 1968 turkey season as April 24 through April 28, from 5 a.m. to noon each day, and said opening of the gun deer season would be Nov. 16 this year and Nov. 15 in 1969.

Closing dates and hours of the deer season will not be announced until later this year. The commission said it set the opening date early to give hunters adequate time to plan their vacations.

The turkey season was reduced two days from last year because of a drop in production, the commission said. Cold and wet weather the past two springs was blamed.

Three counties, Barry, Camden and Osage, were added to the 1967 list of 32 counties where turkey hunting is permitted.

The others are:

Adair, Bollinger, Butler, Callaway, Crawford, Dent, Douglas, Franklin, Gasconade, Hickory, Howell, Iron, Jefferson, Madison, McDonald, Montgomery, Morgan, Ozark, Perry, Phelps, Pulaski, Reynolds, Shannon, Ste. Genevieve, St. Francois, Stone, Taney, Texas, Warren, Washington and Wayne.

Tournaments Spice Next Week's Action

Three tournaments highlight next week's Southeast Missouri high school basketball as the Poplar Bluff invitational, Stoddard county tourney at Bloomfield and the Ozark high school conference tournament open action Monday.

In all three the top seeded team is a member of this week's Daily Standard basketball poll. Poplar Bluff is top seeded for its tourney and is rated fifth in the area. Dexter is rated tenth and is top seeded at Bloomfield. Neelyville, rated eighth, is top seeded for the Ozark meet.

Wiss Provides Spark In Dogs Win

MALDEN -- The district's fourth rated Sikeston high school Bulldog basketball team found the going against this Class M school tough last night. The Dogs found themselves trailing during most of the game, before pulling out to win 70-63 after its junior varsity suffered an 84-63 beating.

Sikeston, running into a cold shooting night and early foul trouble trailed in the first half by as much as eight to ten points but got its shooting eyes opened in the second half to move out to the win.

Coach N. P. McDaniels' crew struggled against the fired up Malden quintet of Vivan Reed as the Green Wave got some spark from its JV's slashing victory.

Sikeston hit a cold 26 per cent from the field in the first half but regained its pose by clipping along the second at a 46 per cent pace, ending the game at a dismal 34 per cent from the field.

Gary Wiss, the Bulldogs 6-2 leading scorer sat out the majority of the first half with four fouls and had only five points in the first half, but came out the second half to spark the winning surge with six field goals and three free throws before fouling out. He ended with game high honors on eight field goals and four free throws for 20 points.

Malden out-rebounded the injured Bulldogs 45-40 as the Dogs main jumping jack, Fred Townes, grabbed only 14, favoring a back injury sustained early this week in practice.

The scoring of guard Dennis Snelling continued as the 5-8 speedster wheeled for 13 points.

Carl Barnett, returning to action for the first time in a month, collected 10 points after coming off the bench to help in that second half surge.

Sikeston tied the score at 45-45 going into the final period and then ripped out 25 big points to Malden's 18 to take the win.

Bobby Owens paced Malden scorers with 16 points as four Green Wave players hit in double figures.

The Malden junior varsity win was sparked by Carl Holloway's 34 points. Throop, Lambert and Sims shared in the Dogs scoring lead with 12, 12 and 11 points respectively.

Both varsity units enter the Poplar Bluff invitational basketball tournament next week at Poplar Bluff where Sikeston was seeded second and Malden unseeded.

Malden goes against Charleston in the 8:30 p.m. match Monday night while Sikeston starts off Tuesday night's schedule with a 7 p.m. game with Greenville.

Delta, East Prairie Win Consolations

EAST PRAIRIE -- Delta and East Prairie won consolation basketball games in the A and B divisions last night. Delta scurried past Ilmo - Scott City 74-54 and East Prairie trimmed Chaffee 54-40.

Championship battles in both the A and B divisions will be played tonight with the first contest starting at 7 p.m. when Scott County Central goes against Delta for the B division title followed at 8:30 p.m. by the Oran - Scott County Central meeting in the A bracket.

Things in the consolation game of the A bracket went as coaches seeded but the B division turned out different as fourth-seeded East Prairie upended third seeded Chaffee.

East Prairie had little trouble in containing the Red Devils as the Eagles rolled up a 30-19 first half lead and then eased into the winners circle behind the scoring leadership of Falkoff, who had 15 points.

Burnett led Chaffee scorers with 18 points.

Delta, with four of its five starters hitting in double figures, rung up a 12-7 first period lead and then cracked open the game with a 48-point second half.

Mobley netted 20 points to top coach Pete Townsend's Bobcat crew while teammate Cook added 17 and two others hit 14 each.

ISC was paced by Dahms and Cummins' 13 points.

George Woods Named Athlete Of LA Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Athlete of the Meet in the annual Los Angeles Invitational indoor track and field show is George Woods, shot putter.

Not the world champion, Randy Matson? Not Tommie Smith, sprinter? Not Bob Seagren, pole vaulter? Not Ralph Boston, long jumper, also world record holder?

No, it was George Woods, who got off a 66-5¾ bomb on his first put and it held up.

Matson? Randy for the first time since he was a freshman at Texas A&M, failed to qualify for the finals. His best was 60-4.

Matson's frustration typified the woes of his fellow champions.

Tommie Smith got off to a bad start and finished third in the 440-yard dash in 50.0 to the 49.5 by winner Jim Kemp of the U.S. Army, formerly of Kentucky State.

Seagren placed second in the pole vault to Erkki Mustakari, of Finland and Fresno State. Both finished at 16-6 but the Finn won on fewer misses.

Bob Beamon of Texas at El Paso, with 26-1¼, beat out Boston's best of 24-10½.

A crowd of 10,182, well under capacity, saw it all in the Sports Arena Friday night.

The winners included footballer Earl McCullouch of Southern Cal in the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.0 flat. A rival football player, Ron Copeland of UCLA, injured his right leg and went out at the third hurdle.

Favored Charlie Greene, ex-Nebraska, had to settle for a tie in the 60-yard dash at 6.1 with John Carlos, while still another USC grid hero, O.J. Simpson, was third in 6.2.

Matson said that when Woods, 24, of the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach, got off his first pop he began to press and could never match the mark. Randy said he wasn't interested in second or third. He wanted to win.

"With my long legs," said Tommie Smith, "if I get off wrong, I'm out of it. That happened. I didn't get a good start."

Boston, asked if there was anything wrong, grinned. "No, just me. I'm just not jumping. But it'll come around."

Woods, 24, a 6-foot, 290-pounder, raised in Sikeston, Mo., and a graduate of Southern Illinois, had a previous best of 64-8 this season.

"I'm happy to win over Randy but I wish he'd had a better night," said the big fellow.

Charleston Turns Back Bell City

BELL CITY -- Charleston opened up with a 15-8 first period lead and fought off constant threats in the first half to post a 63-50 basketball win over Bell City's Cubs last night.

Sam Clemons paced the Bluejays winning battle with 19 points while teammate Ruben Brown added 15.

Charleston held a slim 32-30 lead at half and led only a 43-38 lead going into the final period, but the Jays pulled away by rolling up 20 points.

Bell City stayed in contention throughout the game at the free-throw line, from where it notched 26 charity shots.

Hawks Notch Eighth

LILBOURN -- Wrapping up its New Madrid county conference schedule in high style, the Howardville Hawks shot past crosstown rival Lilbourn last night 82-63 for their fourth basketball win in four days over conference foes. It was their seventh victory against one defeat in league play. They rolled over Gideon 95-73 Thursday night, after beating Parma and Morehouse soundly.

Howardville rolled up its eighth win against four losses and heads into the conference tournament at Matthews with an impressive final four-game group of statistics. The Hawks, seem to have come into their own after a three-week layoff. That ended Tuesday night at Morehouse where the Howardville quintet started its scoring spree that ended with it holding a 105-point-per-game average in its last four games.

Howardville eked into a 15-13 first period lead and held onto it until the final buzzer sounded, adding onto it in each period.

Coach William Jackson's two big 6-7 twin centers racked up 42 points. Ruben Marsh paced the pack with 22 and teammate Lewis Little added 20.

It was the fourth defeat in league play for the Panthers, who have rolled up four wins.

Larry Wolfe topped Lilbourn scorers with 25 points and had teammates Mike Dambach and Harold Allred adding 12 and 10 respectively.

Lilbourn opened the night with a 46-34 win over the Hawks B team. Both enter next week's B team county tournament at New Madrid.

Fisk Splits Pair With New Madrid

NEW MADRID -- Fisk grabbed the varsity win 50-38 while the Indians junior varsity opened up last night's basketball action with a 34-15 win.

New Madrid ran into a cold shooting night and had trouble with the Pirates' press. The Indians trailed 14-10 at the end of the first period and scored but two points in the second to fall back 26-12 at the half. They opened up somewhat in the second half and took a 26-24 edge in scoring but the damage had been done.

Rick Adams topped Fisk scorers with 15 points and Mike Coulson added 14 while New Madrid failed to get a man in double figures as Ross and St. Mary topped the Indians scoring with eight points each.

Gaddy paced New Madrid's B team to its win with 11 points.

24 Average 40 Bushels of Beans

CARUTHERSVILLE - Twenty-four farmers completing the 1967 soybean yield contest in Pemiscot and Dunklin counties averaged 40 bushels per acre on six-acre plots. Here's proof that producers can make higher soybean yields if they use good management practices says Area Extension Agriculture Agent W. F. James.

Here are practices followed by the majority of these producers.

1. Recommended varieties were used.
2. Beans were planted in May, at the rate of 1 bushel per acre.
3. Row width was 38 inches.
4. Preceeding crop had received fertilizer and a direct fertilizer application was made on the lighter soils.
5. Limestone was applied within the past four years.
6. An incorporated pre-emergence chemical was applied to control weeds.
7. Two or more regular cultivations were made.
8. Big weeds were hoed out.

There were two farmers who planted in narrow rows. One using a grain drill making rows seven inches apart and the other using 20 inch rows. Both of these producers used chemicals broadcast and did no cultivation. The 20-inch row field heavy land made 44 bushels and the 7 inch row field in sandy soil made 38 bushels per acre.

All yields were calculated by using two per cent off for foreign matter and standardizing to 14 per cent moisture.

The yield contest was conducted by the banks, Production Credit Association and agricultural agencies in cooperation with the extension agriculture agent in Pemiscot and Dunklin counties.

Cash prizes provided by county banks and P. C. A. in Pemiscot county went to Johnny McClahan of Caruthersville, $100 for first place; N. H. Whitefield of Caruthersville, $75.00 for second place and Tony Watkins, Bragg City, route one, $50.00 for third place.

Merchandise prizes provided by Dunklin County were as follows:

McCall Tire and Appliance presented a 25-inch Color TV set to Harry Ross of Holcomb for first place.

Monsanto Plant Fool Company presented two tons of fertilizer to L. R. Jones of Kennett for second place and one ton of fertilizer to T. C. Farrell for third place.

Kennett Liquid Fertilizer Company presented one ton of Liquid fertilizer to Earl Johnson of Kennett, route two, for fourth place.

Soybean Princess to Be Named

WATERVILLE, Minn. -- The American Soybean Association will name a Princess Soya at its annual convention in New Orleans next August, says Chas. V. Simpson, chairman of the ASA awards committee.

Candidates for Princess Soya will be named by state soybean associations and will compete at the national convention, which will be held at the Roosevelt Hotel Aug. 19-21, says Simpson.

"For years, the Dairy Princess, and Maid of Cotton, Miss Wool, and others have been telling the story of the dairy farmer, the cotton grower, the wool producer and other segments of agriculture. Now, Princess Soya will tell the story of good nutrition through soybeans," says Simpson.

Simpson says it's hoped Princess Soya may be sent to Japan, but there is nothing definite on this as yet.

To be eligible for Princess Soya candidates must be unmarried, 18 to 25 years of age, at least 5 feet 2 inches in height and high school graduates. Qualities to be considered will be healthy appearance, attractiveness, personality and poise, public speaking ability, stature, a basic knowledge of food and nutrition, and familiarity with soybeans and their use worldwide.

Plans fare of the candidates to the convention will be paid by the sponsoring state associations. All praticipating states will pay the same amount on plane fare.

Two Cents Worth Multiplies Fast

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — A Clovis railroad employe is being asked by New Mexico for his two cents worth— plus accumulated interest.

E. E. Carter said Thursday he received a letter from the state informing him the $52.38 he paid in state taxes in 1966 was two cents short of what he owed. Carter said he was informed he now owed $6.49 in penalties and interest, plus the two cents for a total of $6.51.

Nervy Thief Blamed For Explosh Explosion

WILMINGTON, Calif. (AP) — A thief unhooked a gas stove in an apartment house and made off with the stove early Thursday.

Hours later, accumulated gas was ignited by the pilot light of a gas heater in the vacant apartment and exploded. Broken glass was scattered for 100 feet.

No one in the 16-unit building was injured.

On The Fence Row

By Tom Brown

BLOOMFIELD -- We have reached the season of the year when we can normally expect extended periods of cold weather, and providing water to livestock usually presents a problem to livestock producers. Now, of course, the provision of water to livestock seems like a rather simple matter. Nevertheless, comments from farmers and our observation of the situation indicates that the failure to provide water sufficiently warm that livestock will drink all they need during the cold winter period is usually a general problem in the county.

Of course, we have experienced some cold weather lately, and watering troughs, ponds, etc. have remained frozen over throughout the day. In many cases, livestock have had no other means of getting drinking water. During such weather, many local farmers usually have considerable difficulty in watering their livestock. Even if the ice is broken so livestock can drink, the water is too cold for them to drink all they need. Providing livestock with plenty of water that is warm enough to drink can get to be quite a chore during the winter unless you are prepared for it.

Water is one of the most important nutrients and the cheapest ingredient that we can feed. In experimental tests, feeder cattle with water warmed enough to keep it from freezing gained one-half pound more per head per day than did cattle but had access to water that was not heated. This unheated water was kept open by breaking the ice to allow the steers to drink at regular intervals. Research has also indicated that the cost of supplying water to a herd of 80 head of cattle amounts to about $10 per winter. Now, any time we can spend $10 and increase cattle gains by one-half pound per head per day on 80 cattle, this is a good investment. Many of the cattle in Stoddard county have water made available to them by breaking the ice, so as we can see, there is considerable potential for increasing cattle gains and profits merely by taking steps to keep drinking water sufficiently warm for cattle to drink all they need and want.

Cattle require lots of water for most efficient gains. Information from the United States Department of Agriculture indicates that steers on a maintenance ration will consume about 36 gallons of water per head per day while steers on a fattening ration will require about 72 gallons per head per day.

Water is just as important for hogs as for beef cattle. Experimental results also indicate that warming water in very cold weather increases both the rate and economy of gain for hogs. Hogs should have access to clean water at all times or should be watered twice daily.

Considering the additional gains that might be expected by the provision of adequate water for livestock and the amount of water consumed by them, the use of water heaters in stock tanks would seem to be a paying proposition.

Of course, there are a number of water heaters on the market that will do a good job. The provision of well insulated stock tanks is another means of keeping livestock water warm enough for drinking. Such tanks, if properly constructed, will keep water from freezing in zero temperatures or below. If equipped with an automatic float, providing livestock with desirable drinking water during winter is usually no problem.

Mrs. Wheeler Installed as Council Head

BLOOMFIELD - The activities for Stoddard County Home Economocs Club Council began with the annual luncheon meeting at the housing center.

Nineteen clubs with 34 council members were present.

Council officers were installed by Mrs. J. L. Funkhouser, chairman of the installation committee. Those installed were: president, Mrs. Ernest Wheeler, Trotter club; Vice president, Mrs. Hubert Swinger, Frisco club; Secretary, Mrs. Nolan Walker, Vinson Club; Mrs. K. M. Streeter, Painton Homemakers' club; pianist, Mrs. Ray White, Poplin Club; and song leader, Mrs. C. G. Lemmons, Shawn club. Program chairmen for council named by Mrs. Wheeler were, health, Mrs. Ellis Pruitt, Aid Club; safety, Mrs. Jim Russell, Cheerful Homemakers; citizenship, Mrs. Edward Ramsey, Advance Club; international relations, Mrs. Jim Stroud, Howell club; and Beautification, Mrs. Carter Worley, Frisco club.

Council business for the day consisted primarily of distribution of club literature and calandarizing programs and activities for the coming year. Four training lessons were scheduled to be conducted this year for club leaders, those being food and nutrition, textiles and clothing, home management, and human development.

One young homemakers' club from the Painton area was welcomed into the Council.

Mrs. Wheeler announced standing committees:

Constitution - Mrs. Otis Kyle, Chairman, Mrs. John Mick, Mrs. Bill Flowers

Nominating - Mrs. Ellis Pruitt, Chairman, Mrs. Jim Goforth, Mrs. Grover Myers, Mrs. Raymond Scheeter

Installation - Mrs. J. L. Funkhouser, Mrs. Leroy Warren, Mrs. Joe Banken

Standard of Achievement: - Mrs. Earl Harper, Chairman, Mrs. Len Crenshaw, Mrs. Paul Thomason, Mrs. D. L. Brown, Mrs. Homer Craft, Mrs. Robert Brittian, Mrs. Larry Hampton, and Mrs. Amon Miller

$75 Grants Available to 4-H Clubs

COLUMBIA -- Cash grants of up to $75 are available to 4-H clubs to use in promoting conservation of natural resources, according to Arthur C. Ausherman, extension youth specialist at the University of Missouri.

The grants will be awarded on the basis of proposed plans for conservation programs in 1968, according to Ausherman.

Applications, which can be made by one club or a group of clubs, must be submitted through the county 4-H councils to the state Extension youth office.

Plans must be submitted by Feb. 1, Ausherman says. Application forms are available at county Extension centers.

A wide range of activities will be considered for the grants, Ausherman said. To be eligible, the proposed plan must promote conservation, be educational, be well planned, and provide a means for involving people.

A few of the suggested ideas are: planting day, stream clean-up day, community wildlife survey, conservation speech contest, field trips, and conservation slogan contest.

Federal Land Bank Offers Scholarships

ST. LOUIS - The Federal Land Bank will award two $500 scholarships through the college of agriculture, University of Missouri in Columbia, for the 1968-69 school year. This will be the 12th year that scholarship awards have been made by the bank.

Ralph E. Nowlan, president, pointed out that boys who are seniors in high school are eligible to participate for the scholarships if they play to attend the college of agriculture next fall. Application forms and information regarding the awards program may be secured from vocational agriculture teachers.

THE OKEECHOBEE Boy Scout district committee, installed an appreciation dinner, was, from left, George Hale, advancement chairman; Charles Green, Protestant relations chairman; Clem Beal, finance chairman; Stan Eudy, camping chairman; E. 24 Average 40 Bushels of Beans

CARUTHERSVILLE - Twenty-four farmers completing the 1967 soybean yield contest in Pemiscot and Dunklin counties averaged 40 bushels per acre on six-acre plots. Here's proof that producers can make higher soybean yields if they use good management practices says Area Extension Agriculture Agent W. F. James.

Here are practices followed by the majority of these producers.

1. Recommended varieties were used.

Ocean Study May Be Stepped up

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials say President Johnson soon will propose a greatly intensified cooperative effort by all nations to tap the staggering food and mineral wealth of the oceans.

The proposal, it was learned, will aim at:

— Focusing world attention on U.S. use of ocean research as an aid to achieving its international goals— such as seeking to promote world order by helping feed the hungry of all lands.

— Forestalling any "colonial race" by the nations to exploit riches of the deep-sea bed for individual gains.

White House oceanography advisers told The Associated Press Thursday this is the import of a little-noticed sentence in President Johnson's State of the Union message Wednesday night in which he said:

"This year, I shall propose that we launch, with other nations, an exploration of the ocean depths to tap its wealth, and its energy, and its abundance."

It is estimated the oceans have such resources as 50 quadrillion tons of valuable minerals, immense oil reserves and the wherewithal to furnish cheap "fish flour" to meet the protein needs of the world's hungry many times over.

It was also learned by The AP that, partly with the proposed international stepup in mind, the President will shortly ask Congress for even more funds for U.S. marine sciences activities than the $462 million he requested in last year's budget message. Ten years ago only $21 million was budgeted for oceanography.

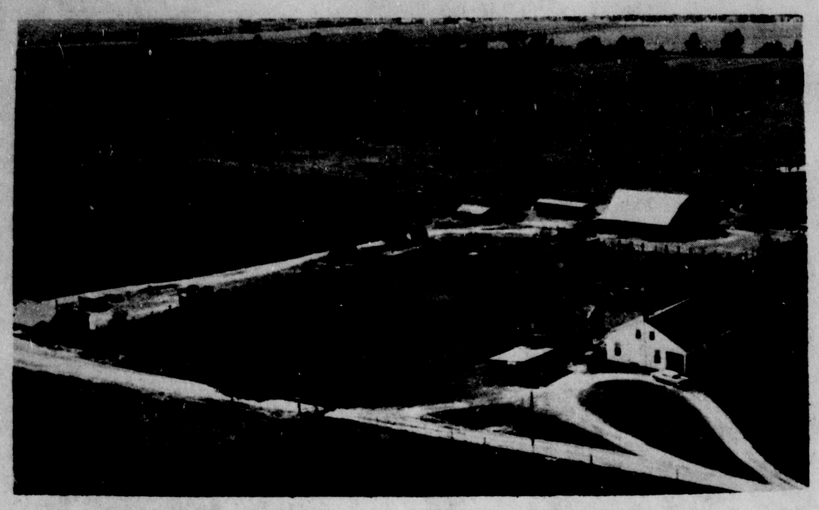

Congress eventually trimmed last year's request to $437 million, but the President intends to push anew for greater funds for ocean research, despite the Vietnam war and other demands, the sources said.

Exact details of the international sea-exploration proposal may be spelled out next month when the President transmits to Congress the second annual report of the National Council on Marine Resources and Engineering Development.

Dr. Edward Wenk, executive secretary of the council, told a newsman Johnson could be expected to call for:

1. More push than heretofore by governments of the various nations to promote and support ocean research on an international basis as a matter of national policy. The push now comes mainly from individual scientists.

2. A more even flow of collaboration among the nations in ocean research "rather than in an isolated expedition from time to time."

Charleston Business Men Told Needs for Industry

CHARLESTON - "You don't buy factories with money, but with attitude," according to Charles Brink, who addressed the Chamber of Commerce on "Why We Lost the Fram Factory."

"We need more pride in our community," Brink said, but he added, "we also need to do some specific things."

The things Charleston needs to do immediately, according to Brink, who was the Chamber's president during 1967 when the community was negotiating with the Fram Corporation, are:

1) Upgrade our school system and get the buildings paid for. Dexter, which was the successful bidder for the new Fram factory, will have all the bonds retired on its new school buildings in 1969 while Charleston is just beginning to modernize its school plant and pay for the changes, Brink said;

2) Attract a chain motel and restaurant complex so people who come to look at the community's industrial potenital will have a modern, attractive place to stay and dine;

3) Purchase an industrial tract and have it available immediately to show industrial prospects;

4) Secure enough money to pave the road on at least one side of any industrial park;

5) Follow up on the city's 701 planning program;

6) Get an up-to-date labor survery of persons who live in Charleston but work away from home who would like to have work locally. This information is needed in writing, Brink said; and

7) Upgrade our medical facilities and attract more physicians to the community. Telling an industrial prospect about the hospitals in Sikeston and Cairo does not help.

Before describing why Charleston lost out on the Fram factory, Brink outlined the steps in negotiations from the initial contact, made through the state Division of Industrial Development, to the final unfavorable decision.

He said the Chamber's contact team entertained two representatives from the Fram headquarters in Rhode Island, and showed them building and site plans, took them through the shoe factory and let them discuss the labor market with factory supervisor Lester Clough, and finally made them a concrete proposal for construction of the factory building to be financed by industrial revenue bonds.

"Money was not the reason we lost out," Brink said, "according to people in the state industrial division. We were told," he continued, "that Dexter did a better selling job and emphasized their new hospital, for which over $800,000 was raised by local subscription."

Brink said the Fram personnel manager asked to see only two things in Charleston. "He wanted to see our best street and our worst street," Brink said. "It was difficult to pick the latter."

Chamber President Morris Gaines announced that the organization would discontinue its monthly dinner meetings, going instead to a quarterly meeting of the membership.

Gaines announced that a committee of five persons had been selected to determine the feasibility of raising enough money to purchase an industrial tract.

Cash Bonus System Holds Farm Workers

CARUTHERSVILLE - Delta farmers who hire labor are continually searching for ways to attract and hold dependable farm workers. In addition to adequate wages and fringe benefits, a cash bonus incentive agreement may be one way which would mutually benefit both the employer and the employe.

Generally, there are four types of bonus plans, Area Extension Agent W. F. James reports, (1) tenure plans which are simply based on time - - say $10.00 per week increase after the employe stays on the job a year; (2) physical production plans based on the number of bales, bushels, etc. For example, 15¢ per bushel on soybean yield above 30 bushels per acre; (3) a per cent of gross income plan is based on enterprise, or total gross sales -- say 3 per cent of soybean sales, and finally, (4) the per cent of net income plan is based on the taxable income as computed for income tax purposes.

Successful bonus plans don't "just happen". They take a lot of careful planning and study. Any one of the four types of plans has certain advantages and disadvantages. For example, a cash bonus for tenure has the advantage of being simple to understand, but may not stimulate the employe to take on added responsibility or the incentive to put forth extra effort. The physical production and the gross income plans also are easily understood and require very little record keeping. However, they may not be more economical for the employer because they don't take costs of production into consideration. A percentage of net income plan is perhaps sounder from the standpoint of good management, but is more difficult to understand and compute. The net income plan certainly requires complete records and a mutual sharing of the financial aspects of the business.

A few guidelines for considering a bonus plan are as follows:

1. Put it in writing and both parties sign the agreement.

2. Start with a simple plan, then consider a more complicated plan after employe has shown his value to the business.

3. Don't use bonus plan as substitute for other things such as good wages, adequate housing, time off, and good labor relations.

4. Give your employe some responsibility in enterprises from which he is to receive an incentive payment.

5. The plan should be such that it is aimed at rewarding the employe for working in the interest of the employer.

The success of any plan depends on the mutual respect of both parties. Many fail because the plan was not understood or was just too complicated. In many cases, it would be best to consider improving regular wages and fringe benefits, first - then, look at the possibility of working out an incentive plan with the employe.

Recreation Group Will Meet Jan. 26

CHARLESTON -- The annual meeting of the Mississippi County Recreation Association, originally scheduled for Thursday, has been postponed until next Friday to avoid a conflict with the Farmers Appreciation Night Dinner Jan. 25, association officials said.

The meeting will be held in the student commons of the new Charleston High School building at 7:30 p.m.

The program will include a discussion of future plans of the association, a review of its 1967 accomplishments, and a wildlife film, according to Sam Jones of East Prairie, president.

Farm Management News

By RICHARD F. McINTOSH
Extension Area Farm Management Agent

BENTON -- The supply of soybean cyst nematode resistant Custer and Dyer seed has not been exhausted.

Producers who would like to obtain seed of either of these varieties should file an application to the Missouri Seed Improvement Association before February 1, 1968. Application forms are available from your University Extension Center and some seed dealers.

After that date the remaining seed of the Custer variety will be sold on the open market.

Dyer is a selection from a cross of Hill with a black seeded, cyst resistant selection from Lee x (Lee x Peking). Dyer is resistant to the soybean cyst nematode, and the two strains of root knot nematodes which affect soybeans. Dyer is 21 days earlier in maturity than Pickett and is five days later in maturity than Hill, a variety which it resembles. It differs from Hill in that it has purple flowers and the seed has a black hilum. Dyer is susceptible to the soybean disease Phythopthora root rot, found in most heavy clay soils. Dyer has been two to three bushels higher than Hill on loam soil. On cyst nematode infested land though, Dyer has a 45 per cent yield advantage over Hill.

Custer was developed at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with the U.S.D.A. and tested in Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky and many southern states. Custer is a composite of 23, F4 lines from a multiple cross, including Scott, Peking, and Blackhawk, carrying resistance to Phytophthora root rot and soybean cyst nematode. It has purple flowers, grey pubescence and yellow seeds with imperfect black hilum. It is similar to Scott in maturity, lodging, plan height and seed quality.

Pickett is another soybean cyst nematode resistant variety which is also available. Seed of this variety can be obtained from several sources, certified seed growers, seed dealers, etc. Pickett is a selection from a cross of a black seeded cyst nematode resistant strain to a strain very similar to Lee in yield and general performance. It is very similar to Lee in appearance except that it has grey pubescence instead of tawny. It is the same maturity as Lee and is resistant to the bacterial pustule, wildfire and target spot leaf disease. The seeds are yellow in color with dark brown hilum and essentially equal to Lee in seed holding and size. Pickett was the first soybean cyst nematode resistant variety to be released. This resistance prevents reproduction of the nematode within the plant roots. It is susceptible to Phytophthora root rot. They should be planted on silt loam type soils.

Grain Parley At Center

PORTAGEVILLE - A grain production conference has been scheduled for farmers in New Madrid county and surrounding communities Monday, at the Delta Center at 9:30 a.m.

Problems concerning corn, grain sorghum and small grains will be discussed by specialists. Questions are arising about planting rates, insect control, dates of planting, weed control and new varieties. Problems encountered with fertilization also come into the picture.

The program:

Grain sorghum and corn varieties for Southeast Missouri ..... Dr. Dwain Horrocks, Research and Extension Agronomist - Columbia.

Rates of Planting for High Corn Yields . . . James Roth, research agronomist (soils) Delta Center.

General Insect Problems and Control Measures in Corn and Sorghum, ...Fiernoy Jones, area entomologist - Delta Center.

Results of Insect Control Studies in Corn and Date of Planting Recommendations, Dr. Armon Keaster, research entomologist, Delta Center.

Fertilizing Corn, sorghum and Small Grain, ...John Garrett, area agronomist (Soils) Delta Center.

Weed Control Recommendations for Corn and Sorghum, Joe Scott, extension agronomist and Dr. Harold Kerr, research agronomist, Delta Center.

Small Grain Varieties for Southeast Missouri, Joe Scott, Delta Center.

Malting Barley Program for Missouri, ...Dr. Leo Duclos, research agronomist (Soybeans and Small Grain), Delta Center.

Harvesting, Storing and Marketing of Grain, ...E. B. Nace, farm management agent, Delta Center.

Dinner will be served at noon.

Stoddard Landowners Practice Conservation

BLOOMFIELD--Stoddard county landowners and operators made use of their soil and water conservation district and the United States Division of Agriculture soil conservation service in 1967.

Gene Wheeler, chairman of the board of supervisors, says the progress report is good in spite of unfavorable weather conditions. More than 3,000 services on conservation planning and application were made to 630 owners and operators during the year.

Some of the major practices carried out by the district cooperators on their lands are: 93 irigation wells, 46 miles of drainage ditches, 4,400 acres of land leveling, 37 farm ponds, 32 drainage and erosion control structures, 45 acres of tree planting, 1800 acres of new pasture seeding and 65 acres of wildlife area improvements.

New cooperative agreements with the Stoddard S&WCD were signed by 121 owners and operators during the year. This brings the total to 1,252 since the beginning of operations in July, 1947. Conservation farm plans were prepared by fifty of the individual owners with the assistance of the local soil conservation service staff. Conservation farm plans are counted only when the cooperator has made all necessary decisions, within practical limits, to use his land within its capabilities and treat it according to its needs for maintenance or improvement. Hill land or sloping land, for example, if cropped in cotton, corn or beans without terraces or other practices to reduce soil loss, would not be considered as used within its capabilities.

Soil surveys are now completed on 221,174 acres of the 535,550 total in the county. Kelly Templeton, who recently transferred from Bloomfield to Lutesville, is the soil scientist assigned to Stoddard. Templetion was moved so he would be more centerally located since he also serves the S&WCD of Bollinger, Perry and St. Genevieve.

Stoddard S&WCD Superviors in addition to Wheeler are Quincy Murphy, Gene Jackson, Gene Reddick and Thomas Brown. They announce that the county wide annual meeting of the organization will be held in Dexter high school auditorium on Feb. 27, 7 p.m.

Flu Ban on Visitors Lifted

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Two Cape Girardeau hospitals which limited their visitations to the immediate families in December because of the high incidence of influenza are returning to their normal policies.

Announcing the end of the special limitations were Southeast Missouri Hospital and St. Francis Hospital.

Woodrow Wilson's first elective office was that of governor of New Jersey.

'Heart' Helps Kasperak Endure More Surgery

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A doctor said Mike Kasperak's transplanted heart pulsed on in an "excellent manner" today after withstanding the effect of another major operation for intestinal bleeding.

After the three-hour surgery Thursday night, Dr. Harry Oberhelman Jr. said the stress on the 54-year-old retired steelworker's ailing liver probably was greater than on his borrowed heart. Oberhelman performed the operation.

Kasperak remained on the critical list.

Kasperak, who received the heart of a dead woman Jan. 6, had his gall bladder removed last Sunday. He has undergone three massive blood transusions this week.

Even with this tremendous strain, Oberhelman and Dr. Norman E. Shumway, who performed the transplant, concurred in the statement that the heart function was normal.

Oberhelman, member of the team that has watched over Kasperak for nearly two weeks, said that in Thursday's operation the vagus nerve leading to the stomach was cut to check gastric juices that were complicating the bleeding.

The bleeding sites were closed and a tube inserted to decompress the stomach. The tube will remain for a couple of days.

Oberhelman described the process as "standard."

The surgeon also reported Kasperak's liver "looked better to the eye." He said he could not tell further until a report on a biopsy.

Kasperak, the fourth human heart transplant case, was said to be alert and awake after the operation.

In Cape Town, Philip Blaiberg, 58, was reported making such satisfactory progress that his surgeon, Dr. Christiaan Barnard, may permit him to return home by Feb. 8.

Family Escapes Death From Carbon Monoxide

CHARLESTON -- Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hess of route three and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hess, barely escaped death from carbon monoxide about noon last Friday.

Andrew and his wife, Floy, went to the A. C. Hess home for lunch. After the meal, Mrs. Lydia Hess complained of feeling ill. She went to lie down while Floy finished the dishes. The men were in the den watching television.

Later Andrew decided it was time to leave, and went looking for his wife. As he passed through the living room Hess discovered his mother, Lydia, lying half on and half off the sofa. He called to his wife, thinking only that something had happened to his mother. Mrs. Floy Hess was found, barely conscious on a bed in the front bedroom.

Both women were admitted to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston. Mrs. Andrew Hess was released Monday. Mrs. A. C. Hess will be a patient a few more days. Her condition is satisfactory.

The cause of the poisonings was a faulty vent on a floor furnace. It is being removed and a central heating and air conditioning unit is being installed in the A.C. Hess home.

First English settlers landed on Barbados in 1627 and, within two years, 1,850 colonists were living there.

Woman Escapes In Blast

PERRYVILLE - A Perryville woman, Mrs. Thelma Kitchen, miraculously escaped with minor injuries when her house was destroyed by an explosion Thursday.

Mrs. Ktichen, 67, who was alone in the house, described the explosion which was heard throughout town by saying, "I was sitting in the utility room drinking coffee when, suddenly, there was a big boom. I felt nothing, but then everything started falling around me. I got up and started to the kitchen when I saw everything was all torn up. I went to the bedroom, but couldn't get in because of the things that had fallen."

Fire Chief A. P. Hoffman said that the house looked like a tornado had hit it, as only the inside walls were standing and many of those were held up by furniture. He said parts of the concrete block house were scattered about the area, with the south wall lying in the front yard and a 20-by-10 foot piece of the roof at the top of a 75-foot tree.

Mrs. Kitchen, who received only a small cut on her foot and had her hair slightly singed, said, "I was stunned. I didn't even feel nervous until it was all over. The Lord was with me, there's no question about that."

Hoffman said 11 men answered the call at 7:30, and it took about 15 minutes to put out small fires throughout the house.

Sewage gas, caused by a lack of entilation in sewage pipes, was blamed for the explosion.

Hoffman said that if the sewage pipes running through the attic had been ventilated, the explosion probably would not have occurred.

Chief Hoffman, who said he did not know what ignited the gas, said that this was the first time he had seen this type of explosion caused by sewage gas.

City officials reported that an engineer from Belleview, Ill., was on his way to inspect the house.

Insurance agent Lawrence Renaud said that the house was insured for $6,000 and that the company would pay the full amount and would also pay for Mrs. Kitchen's living expenses while she was out of the home.

Mrs. Kitchen is living with her daughter, Mrs. Russell Elder, in Perryville.

King Solomon ruled for 40 years, from 943 to 903 B.C.

Ocean Study May Be Stepped up

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials say President Johnson soon will propose a greatly intensified cooperative effort by all nations to tap the staggering food and mineral wealth of the oceans.

The proposal, it was learned, will aim at:

— Focusing world attention on U.S. use of ocean research as an aid to achieving its international goals— such as seeking to promote world order by helping feed the hungry of all lands.

— Forestalling any "colonial race" by the nations to exploit riches of the deep-sea bed for individual gains.

White House oceanography advisers told The Associated Press Thursday this is the import of a little-noticed sentence in President Johnson's State of the Union message Wednesday night in which he said:

"This year, I shall propose that we launch, with other nations, an exploration of the ocean depths to tap its wealth, and its energy, and its abundance."

It is estimated the oceans have such resources as 50 quadrillion tons of valuable minerals, immense oil reserves and the wherewithal to furnish cheap "fish flour" to meet the protein needs of the world's hungry many times over.

It was also learned by The AP that, partly with the proposed international stepup in mind, the President will shortly ask Congress for even more funds for U.S. marine sciences activities than the $462 million he requested in last year's budget message. Ten years ago only $21 million was budgeted for oceanography.

Congress eventually trimmed last year's request to $437 million, but the President intends to push anew for greater funds for ocean research, despite the Vietnam war and other demands, the sources said.

Exact details of the international sea-exploration proposal may be spelled out next month when the President transmits to Congress the second annual report of the National Council on Marine Resources and Engineering Development.

Dr. Edward Wenk, executive secretary of the council, told a newsman Johnson could be expected to call for:

1. More push than heretofore by governments of the various nations to promote and support ocean research on an international basis as a matter of national policy. The push now comes mainly from individual scientists.

2. A more even flow of collaboration among the nations in ocean research "rather than in an isolated expedition from time to time."

Charleston Business Men Told Needs for Industry

CHARLESTON - "You don't buy factories with money, but with attitude," according to Charles Brink, who addressed the Chamber of Commerce on "Why We Lost the Fram Factory."

"We need more pride in our community," Brink said, but he added, "we also need to do some specific things."

The things Charleston needs to do immediately, according to Brink, who was the Chamber's president during 1967 when the community was negotiating with the Fram Corporation, are:

1) Upgrade our school system and get the buildings paid for. Dexter, which was the successful bidder for the new Fram factory, will have all the bonds retired on its new school buildings in 1969 while Charleston is just beginning to modernize its school plant and pay for the changes, Brink said;

2) Attract a chain motel and restaurant complex so people who come to look at the community's industrial potenital will have a modern, attractive place to stay and dine;

3) Purchase an industrial tract and have it available immediately to show industrial prospects;

4) Secure enough money to pave the road on at least one side of any industrial park;

5) Follow up on the city's 701 planning program;

6) Get an up-to-date labor survery of persons who live in Charleston but work away from home who would like to have work locally. This information is needed in writing, Brink said; and

7) Upgrade our medical facilities and attract more physicians to the community. Telling an industrial prospect about the hospitals in Sikeston and Cairo does not help.

Before describing why Charleston lost out on the Fram factory, Brink outlined the steps in negotiations from the initial contact, made through the state Division of Industrial Development, to the final unfavorable decision.

He said the Chamber's contact team entertained two representatives from the Fram headquarters in Rhode Island, and showed them building and site plans, took them through the shoe factory and let them discuss the labor market with factory supervisor Lester Clough, and finally made them a concrete proposal for construction of the factory building to be financed by industrial revenue bonds.

"Money was not the reason we lost out," Brink said, "according to people in the state industrial division. We were told," he continued, "that Dexter did a better selling job and emphasized their new hospital, for which over $800,000 was raised by local subscription."

Brink said the Fram personnel manager asked to see only two things in Charleston. "He wanted to see our best street and our worst street," Brink said. "It was difficult to pick the latter."

Chamber President Morris Gaines announced that the organization would discontinue its monthly dinner meetings, going instead to a quarterly meeting of the membership.

Gaines announced that a committee of five persons had been selected to determine the feasibility of raising enough money to purchase an industrial tract.

Cash Bonus System Holds Farm Workers

CARUTHERSVILLE - Delta farmers who hire labor are continually searching for ways to attract and hold dependable farm workers. In addition to adequate wages and fringe benefits, a cash bonus incentive agreement may be one way which would mutually benefit both the employer and the employe.

Generally, there are four types of bonus plans, Area Extension Agent W. F. James reports, (1) tenure plans which are simply based on time - - say $10.00 per week increase after the employe stays on the job a year; (2) physical production plans based on the number of bales, bushels, etc. For example, 15¢ per bushel on soybean yield above 30 bushels per acre; (3) a per cent of gross income plan is based on enterprise, or total gross sales -- say 3 per cent of soybean sales, and finally, (4) the per cent of net income plan is based on the taxable income as computed for income tax purposes.

Successful bonus plans don't "just happen". They take a lot of careful planning and study. Any one of the four types of plans has certain advantages and disadvantages. For example, a cash bonus for tenure has the advantage of being simple to understand, but may not stimulate the employe to take on added responsibility or the incentive to put forth extra effort. The physical production and the gross income plans also are easily understood and require very little record keeping. However, they may not be more economical for the employer because they don't take costs of production into consideration. A percentage of net income plan is perhaps sounder from the standpoint of good management, but is more difficult to understand and compute. The net income plan certainly requires complete records and a mutual sharing of the financial aspects of the business.

A few guidelines for considering a bonus plan are as follows:

1. Put it in writing and both parties sign the agreement.

2. Start with a simple plan, then consider a more complicated plan after employe has shown his value to the business.

3. Don't use bonus plan as substitute for other things such as good wages, adequate housing, time off, and good labor relations.

4. Give your employe some responsibility in enterprises from which he is to receive an incentive payment.

5. The plan should be such that it is aimed at rewarding the employe for working in the interest of the employer.

The success of any plan depends on the mutual respect of both parties. Many fail because the plan was not understood or was just too complicated. In many cases, it would be best to consider improving regular wages and fringe benefits, first - then, look at the possibility of working out an incentive plan with the employe.

Recreation Group Will Meet Jan. 26

CHARLESTON -- The annual meeting of the Mississippi County Recreation Association, originally scheduled for Thursday, has been postponed until next Friday to avoid a conflict with the Farmers Appreciation Night Dinner Jan. 25, association officials said.

The meeting will be held in the student commons of the new Charleston High School building at 7:30 p.m.

The program will include a discussion of future plans of the association, a review of its 1967 accomplishments, and a wildlife film, according to Sam Jones of East Prairie, president.

Farm Management News

By RICHARD F. McINTOSH

Extension Area Farm Management Agent

BENTON -- The supply of soybean cyst nematode resistant Custer and Dyer seed has not been exhausted.

Producers who would like to obtain seed of either of these varieties should file an application to the Missouri Seed Improvement Association before February 1, 1968. Application forms are available from your University Extension Center and some seed dealers.

After that date the remaining seed of the Custer variety will be sold on the open market.

Dyer is a selection from a cross of Hill with a black seeded, cyst resistant selection from Lee x (Lee x Peking). Dyer is resistant to the soybean cyst nematode, and the two strains of root knot nematodes which affect soybeans. Dyer is 21 days earlier in maturity than Pickett and is five days later in maturity than Hill, a variety which it resembles. It differs from Hill in that it has purple flowers and the seed has a black hilum. Dyer is susceptible to the soybean disease Phythopthora root rot, found in most heavy clay soils. Dyer has been two to three bushels higher than Hill on loam soil. On cyst nematode infested land though, Dyer has a 45 per cent yield advantage over Hill.

Custer was developed at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with the U.S.D.A. and tested in Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky and many southern states. Custer is a composite of 23, F4 lines from a multiple cross, including Scott, Peking, and Blackhawk, carrying resistance to Phytophthora root rot and soybean cyst nematode. It has purple flowers, grey pubescence and yellow seeds with imperfect black hilum. It is similar to Scott in maturity, lodging, plan height and seed quality.

Pickett is another soybean cyst nematode resistant variety which is also available. Seed of this variety can be obtained from several sources, certified seed growers, seed dealers, etc. Pickett is a selection from a cross of a black seeded cyst nematode resistant strain to a strain very similar to Lee in yield and general performance. It is very similar to Lee in appearance except that it has grey pubescence instead of tawny. It is the same maturity as Lee and is resistant to the bacterial pustule, wildfire and target spot leaf disease. The seeds are yellow in color with dark brown hilum and essentially equal to Lee in seed holding and size. Pickett was the first soybean cyst nematode resistant variety to be released. This resistance prevents reproduction of the nematode within the plant roots. It is susceptible to Phytophthora root rot. They should be planted on silt loam type soils.

Stoddard Landowners Practice Conservation

BLOOMFIELD--Stoddard county landowners and operators made use of their soil and water conservation district and the United States Division of Agriculture soil conservation service in 1967.

SAIGON SHOWS PROGRESS

U.S. authorities in Saigon have come up with a new computerized system to maintain a continuing check on the political state of the countryside. The more than 12,000 hamlets throughout South Vietnam are regularly evaluated according to 18 criteria covering security, economic progress, and health, education and welfare efforts. Statistics available to date this year show a rise of 4 per cent in the "secure" population.

Nearly 40 per cent—2.8 million people—of South Vietnam's rural population lives in villages heavily "infected" by the Viet Cong, according to Saigon's computerized check on political temperature. Computer-processed data rates all hamlets in the country on a six-point scale:

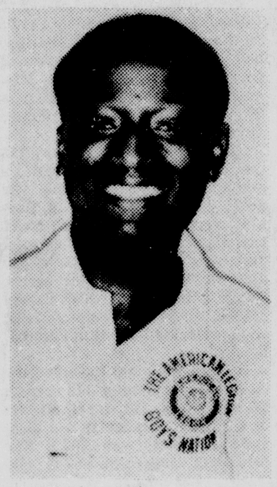

A—Slight Viet Cong activity; government programs functioning well.
B—Security high; government programs operating but need improving.
C—Government dominant, but population subject to Viet Cong harassment.
D—Government presence, but Viet Cong taxation and terrorism continue.
E—Little security; government activity entirely military.
V—Viet Cong in control.

Fashion's Newest Leg-acy

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The female leg has gone out on a limb. Hosiery designers have kicked up their fashion heels this season with an array of underpinnings that are dressed up, dressed down, be-glittered, be-jeweled, whitened, darkened and even neon lighted.

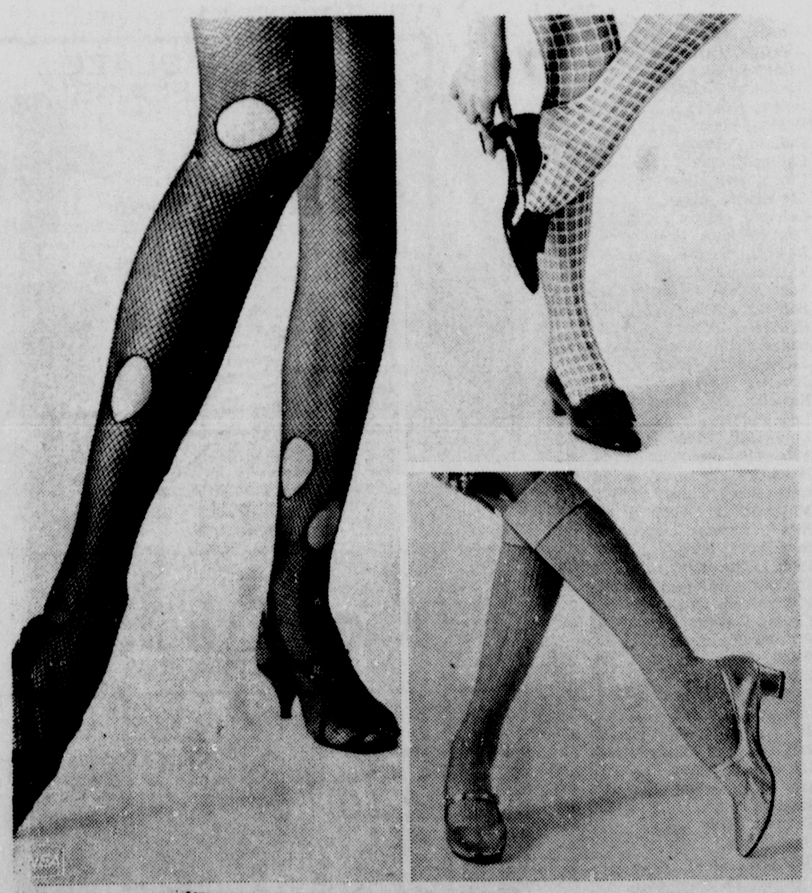

Footloose but definitely not "fancy" free, legs have made such an impact that dress designers start with the stems and think up.

The more zany the stocking, the more exposure of skin. For example, meshes have moved from molecular to modest to immense. Suggested for daytime wear, these sport goodies are in colors from white to dark—with all the gay shades in between—and wear equally well with jaunty bootery and shoes.

More adventurous cut-ups, however, will indulge in peephole cutouts, provocative and pretty, particularly for evening. The scoop here is that the best cut-up of all is an asymetrical design — no-match, natch.

The leg to stand on for the up-to-the-mode miss is the mini-stocking or maxi-sock. Knee-high or slightly below, these are strictly for those who are uninhibited enough to enjoy giving their knees an airing. Faintly reminiscent of the traditional knee sock, the contemporary versions show up in the most formal tones of silver and gold as well as in casual patterned knits. Either way, the style's deceptively demure, fetchingly young and kicky.

But you won't be covering a multitude of skin with this season's hosiery, so you will want to keep your legs looking smooth and free of unsightly fuzz.

ONLY LONG AND LOVELY LEGGERY, enhanced by new mini-mesh hosiery with skin-showing cutouts, adds fun to a costume. The unpredictable pattern (left) never is in quite the same place on both legs. Light or dark, the square-patterned stocking (upper right) emerges as a frivolous favorite for the sports-minded. Newest look-see (lower right) bares the knee. Mini-stockings or maxi-socks, this style goes to all lengths to be fetchingly young.

SAIGON SHOWS PROGRESS

U.S. authorities in Saigon have come up with a new computerized system to maintain a continuing check on the political state of the countryside. The more than 12,000 hamlets throughout South Vietnam are regularly evaluated according to 18 criteria covering security, economic progress, and health, education and welfare efforts. Statistics available to date this year show a rise of 4 per cent in the "secure" population.

Nearly 40 per cent—2.8 million people—of South Vietnam's rural population lives in villages heavily "infected" by the Viet Cong, according to Saigon's computerized check on political temperature. Computer-processed data rates all hamlets in the country on a six-point scale:

A—Slight Viet Cong activity; government programs functioning well.
B—Security high; government programs operating but need improving.
C—Government dominant, but population subject to Viet Cong harassment.
D—Government presence, but Viet Cong taxation and terrorism continue.
E—Little security; government activity entirely military.
V—Viet Cong in control.

Ann Landers

Nightgown Clad Girl in Alley With Boy at 2 a.m. Needs Counseling

Dear Ann Landers: Diane (age 16) asked if she could spend the night at her girl friend's home. She and the girl have been very close for several years and they have slept at each other's homes many times in the past, so I gave her permission, without thinking much about it.

At 2:30 in the morning I got a call from the juvenile authorities. Diane was picked up in the alley behind her friend's house. She was wearing a silk nightgown and had a blanket wrapped around her. Diane was with a boy I have asked her not to go with any more.

When I went down to the police station to get Diane I was so upset I couldn't think straight. They let her off with a scolding, but I took all her privileges away -- dating, phone, friends, allowance.

Now I have found that she was there by accident. On one hand I feel I am being too strict. On the other hand, I didn't raise my daughter to be in the alley at 2:30 in the moring. What is your advice? ---DON'T KNOW

Dear Don't: I can't imagine what sort of accident would justify a 16-year-old girl being in an alley (in her nightgown yet) at 2:30 a.m. in the morning.

This girl needs more than restrictions. She needs counseling and I hope you will see to it that she gets it. Most high schools have excellent guidance programs and if a girl ever needed guidance, yours does.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday a friend was in our home and we were discussing food. Our teenager was present and he voiced a strong dislike for a certain casserole dish. The friend said it was one of her favorites and she couldn't understand why he didn't care for it since everyone she knew compliment her whenever she served it.

Tonight our family was invited to this friend's home for dinner. I could scarcely believe my eyes when she brought out that much - discussed casserole as her main course. Our teen-age son said it looked good but he didn't care for any. The hostess's own children were served hot dogs, which indicated that they didn't care for the casserole, either. Our son was not offered a hot dog.

When we left, the hostess turned to me and said, "Someone slipped up when it came to teaching your son manners. Imagine turning down the main course!"

Do you feel the boy should have choked it down just to be polite? ---EUREKA

Dear Eurkea: Your son should have taken a small portion of the main course and left it on his plate.

The hostess's manners left much to be desired, however. She should have offered the boy a hot dog when he passed up the casserole and said no more about it.

Dear Readers: Last week I printed a letter from an airport superintendent in Madison, Wis., who was upset because I said it was O.K. for teen-agers to go to the airports to "discuss life." I printed the superintendent's letter hoping to discourage the kids in Madison from going to the airport.

Now I have a letter from a library administrator in Bloomfington, Ind. who says kids are welcome to come to the University libraries to "discuss life" to their heart's content. He, in fact, used the phrase, "We are delighted to have them."

So, kiddies, you can go to the libraries in Bloomington, Ind., but please stay out of the airport in Madison, Wis.

Give in or lose him. . .when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking And Petting - What are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MISSOURI STATE HIGHWAY PATROL

Couple Gets Weary of Roughing It

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bruce Johnson and Shari Quam, who set out three months ago to prove that man could start from scratch on a desert island and make it, came home Friday after 40 days and 40 nights on the South Seas island of Wagada.

The adventure was wild, difficult and wonderful, they agreed.

Bronzed and smiling, the couple— a former physical education instructor in his 40s and his 22-year-old girl friend, a former nurse— said it was "a good experience" but they wouldn't do it again.

"We can't say it was an ideal paradise, because it wasn't," Johnson told an airport news conference. The bearded adventurer said the greatest problem was getting food, and coping with rats, bats and ants.

"We sometimes went without eating for four or five days because food was so hard to find," said the brown-eyed Miss Quam. She said the staples of their diet were crabs and coconuts "and after awhile we couldn't stand the sight of crabs."

The Santa Monica, Calif., couple traveled to the uninhabited island in the Lau group about 200 miles southeast of Suva on a boat heading there to pick up coconuts.

Taking only bathing suits, they found they had come unprepared for the elements.

"We were able to walk a little way on the beach at low tide, and then the coral on the ground began to cut our feet," said Johnson. "We couldn't explore the island at all because the coral made the cliffs like broken glass."

They built a lean-to of palm fronds and began foraging for food. "Bruce would be in the water most of the day trying to catch fish," Shari said. Both said they feared the poisonous lionfish which inhabited waters near the island.

During their stay, Bruce and Shari shot about 2,800 feet of film which they intend to sell. They also plan to write a book — tentatively titled "Adam and Eve Crusoe."

Both said they experienced new admiration for each other after seven years of close friendship. They have no plans to marry.

The two homes featured in the January issue of the Standard were those of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Blanton, sr., on Tanner street and the home of Mrs. Kate Harris and the Chaney sisters on North Ranney avenue. Of Colonial design built soon after the Civil War, and remodeled throughout, the home of the Blantons has eight rooms, two baths and is one of the many homey homes of Sikeston. The Harris home is an attractive colonial type home and was completed in September 1937. The house is two stories and the exterior is painted white with a gray roof and green shutters.

5 Stoddard Farmers Average 146 Bushels

JACKSON -- Five Stoddard County farmers averaged 145.63 bushels an acre on fields they had entered in the corn growing contest sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association. They were honored at a dinner Friday night.

Gary J. Mayberry, Dexter, was the county champion with an average of 164.66 bushels an acre. C. E. Sides & Sons, Bernie, were second with 158.72 bushels. Others in the contest and their average yields per acre were: Charles Mayberry, Route 1, Dexter, 149.50; James Moore, Route 2, Advance, 127.90; and Joe Jenkins, Route 1, Painton, 127.38.

To get his big yield Gary J. Mayberry planted his corn in 38 inch rows on March 30. He had 22,133 stalks to the acre and the variety was 3233. For fertilizer treatment he plowed under 420 pounds of 0-20-33 and put 160 pounds of 8-22-11 with trace elements in the row per acre. Later he side dressed with 220 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre. Knoxweed was applied at time of planting to control weeds.

C. E. Sides & Sons planted their contest field on March 30 in 38 inch rows. They had 19,333 stalks to the acre and the variety was 3232. The field received 2 tons of lime per acre in 1966. For a starter fertilizer they put 200 pounds of 6-24-24 per acre in the row. Later they side dressed with 200 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre. They applied atrazine at time of planting to control weeds and grass. The field was located a quarter of a mile east of the handle factory.

The 223 farmers in Missouri entered in MFA corn contests last fall averaged 132.79 bushels an acre. This compares with the government estimate of 69 bushels an acre for Missouri.

The state champion was Robert Nitsch of Jackson who averaged 207.87 bushels an acre.

FARM MANAGEMENT

The following information on the Hog Outlook was written by Agricultural Economists, Glenn Grimes, Charles Cramer, Leroy Rottmann and Livestock Specialist Melvin Bradley.

The December Pig Crop Report indicated little change in sow farrowing for June - November of 1967 as compared to 1966. During 1967 the Pig Crop Report has underestimated the supply from 4-12 per cent on a quarterly basis. We believe the estimate for the fall crop of 1967 may also be low by 13 per cent.

The December report also indicated that farmers intended to reduce farrowings by 1 per cent in the spring of 1968. There are at least two things that indicate this estimate may also be too low. They are:

1. Sow slaughter dropped below year earlier levels in July and stayed low relative to 1966 through Aug., Sept., and Oct. Reduced sow slaughter is one of the first indications of an increase in hog production.

2. The hog - corn ratio increased to 16.4-1 in May and has averaged 16.9-1 from June through Nov.

In the past, hog producers have generally responded to sharp increases in feed grain production and lower feed prices. We believe they will do this in the spring of 1968 and increase farrowing by 3 - 5 per cent as compared to the spring of 1967.

Commercial hog slaughter in 1967 was up about 11 per cent as compared to 1966. The increase in total tonnage was up between 1 and 2 per cent less because of lighter slaughter weights.

Slaughter numbers are expected to be 2-4 per cent larger during the first half of 1968 as compared to 1967. Another 1 per cent probably will be added to total tonnage of pork during this period because of heavier slaughter weights. The increase in average slaughter weights is expected to result from farmers attempting to market the large feed grain crop to advantage through hogs.

In the last half of 1968, slaughter hog numbers are expected to be 3-5 per cent larger than in the last half of 1967.

Hog prices during 1967 averaged about $4 per cwt. below 1966. Demand for pork was quite strong in 1967 and prices did not decline as much with the approximate 10 per cent increase in supply as usually happens. With a 10 per cent increase in supply, prices usually drop between 20 and 25 per cent. In 1967 the decrease in price was only about 17 per cent.

Prices are expected to average $1-$2 per cwt. lower in 1968 than in 1967. An estimate by quarter for 1968 along with 1967 prices are shown in Table 1.

TABLE 1
Average Prices of No. 1 & 2, 200-220 lb. Barrows and Gilts by Quarter National Stock Yards

Cotton Research Moving Well

MEMPHIS - "The grower - financed program of research and promotion is moving along exceptionally well in its first year and offers great hope for expanded markets for cotton," the chairman of the cotton board reported today.

The board held its first meeting of 1968 to review the status and progress of its collection system. Addressing members of the board, Chairman G. C. Cortright, Jr., Rolling Fork, Miss., commended producers, ginners, collecting handlers, and other segments of the industry for their "wholehearted support and cooperation in getting the collection system off to such an outstanding beginning."

In praising the Cotton Producers Institute for its efficiency in organizing, planning, and moving into a $5.3 million program of promotion and $2.7 million program of research, he said, "This $8 million research and promotion effort during 1968 is destined to have a far-reaching and lasting effect on cotton's future."

The board administers the uniform assessment program of $1 per bale collected from producers. Collections are made by handlers who remit to the board. The board contracts with a Belt-wide producer organization for carrying out the research and promotion program. Staff and facilities of the National Cotton Council are utilized by CPI to carry out the projects.

"The collection system is working remarkably well," Cortright told the board; "remittances and reports are coming in from collecting handlers at a very satisfactory rate. With this very fine cooperation, we anticipate few, if any, willful infranctions."

The end-of-season gin report lists producers, number of bales ginned for each, and provides control for the collection system. Regulations require that all gins file this report within ten days after the close of the year's ginning operation. Cortright urged ginners to submit this report accurately and promptly.

Members of the board of addition to Cortright are: J. Russell Kennedy, Bakersfield, Calif., vice chairman; Roy B. Davis, Lubbock, Texas, secretary; and Joe Fleming, Huntsville, Ala., treasurer; D. W. Brooks, Atlanta; G. D. Arndt, Raleigh, N. C.; Robert R. Coker, Hartsville, S. C.; R. E. L. Wilson, III, Wilson, Ark.; Bruce N. Lynn, Gilliam, La.; Ernest G. Spivey, Jackson, Miss.; K. M. Streeter, Painton, Mo.; J. Wayne Griggs, Humboldt, Tenn.; George W. Stone, Choctaw, Okla.; J. B. Cooper, Roscoe, Texas; Jay L. Naman Waco, Texas; Jack R. Funk, Harlingen, Texas; George Lee Smith, Prairie View, Texas; J. Clyde Wilson, Goodyear, Ariz.; Harry S. Baker, Fresno, Calif.; and Albert E. Carter, Carlsbad, N. M.

Of Interest to Homemakers

By Fredericka Plummer
Ext. Area Home Economist

CHARLESTON - Anyone building a new home may find plans developed and printed by the University of Missouri useful in selecting a plan that most nearly fills the needs of the family. The Missouri house plans are free.

Go to your County Extension Center to see a catalog of plans. After selecting a plan from the catalog, you may secure this plan to study. You may need to make some changes to fit your situation and family needs. Don't make changes that will take out the good features of the home that have been planned into the particular design. These are listed on the plan.

Here are six features that most families are willing to pay for:

AN ENTRY HALL for the first meeting place of guests. A guest wrap closet would be located in this area. Ideally the living room would be on one side and the kitchen and dining area on the other.

OUTSIDE ACCESS TO THE KITCHEN might be by way of a utility room and/or garage or car port. It reduces traffic through the other rooms.

A SEPARATE DINING AREA is important to the family where considerable entertaining is done and a complete set of dining room furniture can be afforded. A more practical solution for the lower cost home is a larger living room and kitchen.

OUTDOOR PRIVACY is possible by shielding a portion of the area behind the home to develop an outside living area.

A GOOD TRAFFIC SITUATION THROUGH THE HOME. Can you go from any room in the house to a second room without going into a third?

PLENTY OF STORAGE SPACE is important for appliances in addition to such things as card tables, clothing, cleaning equipment, etc.

If You Were The Judge

Expectant Mother Can Collect for Worry

Martha was infanticipating the arrival of the stork when she became involved in an automobile accident. Hector carelessly bumped into her car causing her to bump her stomach. While her injuries were relatively minor, she worried more about the effect of the accident upon her unborn child than she did about her outrageously expanding figure. In fact, until the fetal developed in fine fettel, she was in a state of perpetual emotion.

Consequently, and despite the fact the child was born perfectly normal, Martha sued Hector for the mental torment she suffered for fear the child would not be born perfectly normal.

"I was so upset," she told the Judge, "I couldn't move. For hours, I used to sit like Rodin's 'The Thinker' and just worry."

"But she was worrying about nothing," was Hector's answer. "And, the best proof of that is the fact the child was born in fine condition. Must I pay because she's a worrier?"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Hector pay for Martha's needless worry?

This is how the Judge ruled: Yes! The Judge held that an expectant mother's anxiety for the well-being of the child she is carrying at the time of an accident is a recoverable item of damages. Her mental disturbance is natural, understandable and compensible.

King Will Retire as Shoe Official

ST. LOUIS - R. Emmett King, the director of manufacturing of International Shoe Company, will retire from active service Feb. 1, and will be succeeded by Perry H. Jones, assistant director of manufacturing.

King was employed by the Company in 1924. He first held clerical positions in the St. Louis offices and served in supervisory and management positions in several of the company's shoe factories. He was appointed assistant general superintendent-juvenile shoe manufacturing in 1954. He was named director of manufacturing in 1966.

Jones, also a veteran of more than 40 years service with the company, started his career as a general employe in the company's shoe factory in Jackson and served in supervisory and management positions.

He was appointed general superintendent-men's shoe manufacturing in 1964 and assistant director of manufacturing in 1967.

Bishop Cadigan to Seek Support for Planned Parenthood

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bishop George L. Cadigan of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri will ask for support of planned parenthood in a pastoral letter to be read Sunday in all churches of the diocese.

"One of the most critical objectives of our time must be to contain the worldwide explosion of population within the next two decades," Bishop Cadigan said in the letter.

The bishop said the population buildup could produce six billion people by the year 2,000.

Bishop Cadigan said international cooperation is required for a full attack on the problem, but he added "the responsibility for initiative must rest upon those of us who understand the problems and who can begin to mobilize the concern, the resolve and the resources necessary for the task."

Ann Landers

Nightgown Clad Girl in Alley With Boy at 2 a.m. Needs Counseling

Dear Ann Landers: Diane (age 16) asked if she could spend the night at her girl friend's home. She and the girl have been very close for several years and they have slept at each other's homes many times in the past, so I gave her permission, without thinking much about it.

At 2:30 in the morning I got a call from the juvenile authorities. Diane was picked up in the alley behind her friend's house. She was wearing a silk nightgown and had a blanket wrapped around her. Diane was with a boy I have asked her not to go with any more.

When I went down to the police station to get Diane I was so upset I couldn't think straight. They let her off with a scolding, but I took all her privileges away -- dating, phone, friends, allowance.

Now I have found that she was there by accident. On one hand I feel I am being too strict. On the other hand, I didn't raise my daughter to be in the alley at 2:30 in the moring. What is your advice? ---DON'T KNOW

Dear Don't: I can't imagine what sort of accident would justify a 16-year-old girl being in an alley (in her nightgown yet) at 2:30 a.m. in the morning.

This girl needs more than restrictions. She needs counseling and I hope you will see to it that she gets it. Most high schools have excellent guidance programs and if a girl ever needed guidance, yours does.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday a friend was in our home and we were discussing food. Our teenager was present and he voiced a strong dislike for a certain casserole dish. The friend said it was one of her favorites and she couldn't understand why he didn't care for it since everyone she knew compliment her whenever she served it.

Tonight our family was invited to this friend's home for dinner. I could scarcely believe my eyes when she brought out that much - discussed casserole as her main course. Our teenage son said it looked good but he didn't care for any. The hostess's own children were served hot dogs, which indicated that they didn't care for the casserole, either. Our son was not offered a hot dog.

When we left, the hostess turned to me and said, "Someone slipped up when it came to teaching your son manners. Imagine turning down the main course!"

Do you feel the boy should have choked it down just to be polite? ---EUREKA

Dear Eurkea: Your son should have taken a small portion of the main course and left it on his plate.

The hostess's manners left much to be desired, however. She should have offered the boy a hot dog when he passed up the casserole and said no more about it.

Dear Readers: Last week I printed a letter from an airport superintendent in Madison, Wis., who was upset because I said it was O.K. for teen-agers to go to the airports to "discuss life." I printed the superintendent's letter hoping to discourage the kids in Madison from going to the airport.

Now I have a letter from a library administrator in Bloomfington, Ind. who says kids are welcome to come to the University libraries to "discuss life" to their heart's content. He, in fact, used the phrase, "We are delighted to have them."

So, kiddies, you can go to the libraries in Bloomington, Ind., but please stay out of the airport in Madison, Wis.

Give in or lose him. . .when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking And Petting - What are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MISSOURI STATE HIGHWAY PATROL

Couple Gets Weary of Roughing It

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bruce Johnson and Shari Quam, who set out three months ago to prove that man could start from scratch on a desert island and make it, came home Friday after 40 days and 40 nights on the South Seas island of Wagada.

The adventure was wild, difficult and wonderful, they agreed.

Bronzed and smiling, the couple— a former physical education instructor in his 40s and his 22-year-old girl friend, a former nurse— said it was "a good experience" but they wouldn't do it again.

"We can't say it was an ideal paradise, because it wasn't," Johnson told an airport news conference. The bearded adventurer said the greatest problem was getting food, and coping with rats, bats and ants.

"We sometimes went without eating for four or five days because food was so hard to find," said the brown-eyed Miss Quam. She said the staples of their diet were crabs and coconuts "and after awhile we couldn't stand the sight of crabs."

The Santa Monica, Calif., couple traveled to the uninhabited island in the Lau group about 200 miles southeast of Suva on a boat heading there to pick up coconuts.

Taking only bathing suits, they found they had come unprepared for the elements.

"We were able to walk a little way on the beach at low tide, and then the coral on the ground began to cut our feet," said Johnson. "We couldn't explore the island at all because the coral made the cliffs like broken glass."

They built a lean-to of palm fronds and began foraging for food. "Bruce would be in the water most of the day trying to catch fish," Shari said. Both said they feared the poisonous lionfish which inhabited waters near the island.

During their stay, Bruce and Shari shot about 2,800 feet of film which they intend to sell. They also plan to write a book — tentatively titled "Adam and Eve Crusoe."

Both said they experienced new admiration for each other after seven years of close friendship. They have no plans to marry.

The two homes featured in the January issue of the Standard were those of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Blanton, sr., on Tanner street and the home of Mrs. Kate Harris and the Chaney sisters on North Ranney avenue. Of Colonial design built soon after the Civil War, and remodeled throughout, the home of the Blantons has eight rooms, two baths and is one of the many homey homes of Sikeston. The Harris home is an attractive colonial type home and was completed in September 1937. The house is two stories and the exterior is painted white with a gray roof and green shutters.

5 Stoddard Farmers Average 146 Bushels

JACKSON -- Five Stoddard County farmers averaged 145.63 bushels an acre on fields they had entered in the corn growing contest sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association. They were honored at a dinner Friday night.

Gary J. Mayberry, Dexter, was the county champion with an average of 164.66 bushels an acre. C. E. Sides & Sons, Bernie, were second with 158.72 bushels. Others in the contest and their average yields per acre were: Charles Mayberry, Route 1, Dexter, 149.50; James Moore, Route 2, Advance, 127.90; and Joe Jenkins, Route 1, Painton, 127.38.

To get his big yield Gary J. Mayberry planted his corn in 38 inch rows on March 30. He had 22,133 stalks to the acre and the variety was 3233. For fertilizer treatment he plowed under 420 pounds of 0-20-33 and put 160 pounds of 8-22-11 with trace elements in the row per acre. Later he side dressed with 220 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre. Knoxweed was applied at time of planting to control weeds.

C. E. Sides & Sons planted their contest field on March 30 in 38 inch rows. They had 19,333 stalks to the acre and the variety was 3232. The field received 2 tons of lime per acre in 1966. For a starter fertilizer they put 200 pounds of 6-24-24 per acre in the row. Later they side dressed with 200 pounds of anhydrous ammonia per acre. They applied atrazine at time of planting to control weeds and grass. The field was located a quarter of a mile east of the handle factory.

The 223 farmers in Missouri entered in MFA corn contests last fall averaged 132.79 bushels an acre. This compares with the government estimate of 69 bushels an acre for Missouri.

The state champion was Robert Nitsch of Jackson who averaged 207.87 bushels an acre.

Young People

The United States today is largely a nation made up of young people, yet in 1790 nearly half of this country's population of four million were under 16 years of age.

Cotton Research Moving Well

MEMPHIS - "The grower - financed program of research and promotion is moving along exceptionally well in its first year and offers great hope for expanded markets for cotton," the chairman of the cotton board reported today.

The board held its first meeting of 1968 to review the status and progress of its collection system. Addressing members of the board, Chairman G. C. Cortright, Jr., Rolling Fork, Miss., commended producers, ginners, collecting handlers, and other segments of the industry for their "wholehearted support and cooperation in getting the collection system off to such an outstanding beginning."

In praising the Cotton Producers Institute for its efficiency in organizing, planning, and moving into a $5.3 million program of promotion and $2.7 million program of research, he said, "This $8 million research and promotion effort during 1968 is destined to have a far-reaching and lasting effect on cotton's future."

The board administers the uniform assessment program of $1 per bale collected from producers. Collections are made by handlers who remit to the board. The board contracts with a Belt-wide producer organization for carrying out the research and promotion program. Staff and facilities of the National Cotton Council are utilized by CPI to carry out the projects.

"The collection system is working remarkably well," Cortright told the board; "remittances and reports are coming in from collecting handlers at a very satisfactory rate. With this very fine cooperation, we anticipate few, if any, willful infranctions."

The end-of-season gin report lists producers, number of bales ginned for each, and provides control for the collection system. Regulations require that all gins file this report within ten days after the close of the year's ginning operation. Cortright urged ginners to submit this report accurately and promptly.

Members of the board of addition to Cortright are: J. Russell Kennedy, Bakersfield, Calif., vice chairman; Roy B. Davis, Lubbock, Texas, secretary; and Joe Fleming, Huntsville, Ala., treasurer; D. W. Brooks, Atlanta; G. D. Arndt, Raleigh, N. C.; Robert R. Coker, Hartsville, S. C.; R. E. L. Wilson, III, Wilson, Ark.; Bruce N. Lynn, Gilliam, La.; Ernest G. Spivey, Jackson, Miss.; K. M. Streeter, Painton, Mo.; J. Wayne Griggs, Humboldt, Tenn.; George W. Stone, Choctaw, Okla.; J. B. Cooper, Roscoe, Texas; Jay L. Naman Waco, Texas; Jack R. Funk, Harlingen, Texas; George Lee Smith, Prairie View, Texas; J. Clyde Wilson, Goodyear, Ariz.; Harry S. Baker, Fresno, Calif.; and Albert E. Carter, Carlsbad, N. M.

FARM MANAGEMENT

The following information on the Hog Outlook was written by Agricultural Economists, Glenn Grimes, Charles Cramer, Leroy Rottmann and Livestock Specialist Melvin Bradley.

The December Pig Crop Report indicated little change in sow farrowing for June - November of 1967 as compared to 1966. During 1967 the Pig Crop Report has underestimated the supply from 4-12 per cent on a quarterly basis. We believe the estimate for the fall crop of 1967 may also be low by 13 per cent.

The December report also indicated that farmers intended to reduce farrowings by 1 per cent in the spring of 1968. There are at least two things that indicate this estimate may also be too low. They are:

1. Sow slaughter dropped below year earlier levels in July and stayed low relative to 1966 through Aug., Sept., and Oct. Reduced sow slaughter is one of the first indications of an increase in hog production.

2. The hog - corn ratio increased to 16.4-1 in May and has averaged 16.9-1 from June through Nov.

In the past, hog producers have generally responded to sharp increases in feed grain production and lower feed prices. We believe they will do this in the spring of 1968 and increase farrowing by 3 - 5 per cent as compared to the spring of 1967.

Commercial hog slaughter in 1967 was up about 11 per cent as compared to 1966. The increase in total tonnage was up between 1 and 2 per cent less because of lighter slaughter weights.

Slaughter numbers are expected to be 2-4 per cent larger during the first half of 1968 as compared to 1967. Another 1 per cent probably will be added to total tonnage of pork during this period because of heavier slaughter weights. The increase in average slaughter weights is expected to result from farmers attempting to market the large feed grain crop to advantage through hogs.

In the last half of 1968, slaughter hog numbers are expected to be 3-5 per cent larger than in the last half of 1967.

Hog prices during 1967 averaged about $4 per cwt. below 1966. Demand for pork was quite strong in 1967 and prices did not decline as much with the approximate 10 per cent increase in supply as usually happens. With a 10 per cent increase in supply, prices usually drop between 20 and 25 per cent. In 1967 the decrease in price was only about 17 per cent.

Prices are expected to average $1-$2 per cwt. lower in 1968 than in 1967. An estimate by quarter for 1968 along with 1967 prices are shown in Table 1.

Of Interest to Homemakers

By Fredericka Plummer
Ext. Area Home Economist

CHARLESTON - Anyone building a new home may find plans developed and printed by the University of Missouri useful in selecting a plan that most nearly fills the needs of the family. The Missouri house plans are free.

Go to your County Extension Center to see a catalog of plans. After selecting a plan from the catalog, you may secure this plan to study. You may need to make some changes to fit your situation and family needs. Don't make changes that will take out the good features of the home that have been planned into the particular design. These are listed on the plan.

Here are six features that most families are willing to pay for:

AN ENTRY HALL for the first meeting place of guests. A guest wrap closet would be located in this area. Ideally the living room would be on one side and the kitchen and dining area on the other.

OUTSIDE ACCESS TO THE KITCHEN might be by way of a utility room and/or garage or car port. It reduces traffic through the other rooms.

A SEPARATE DINING AREA is important to the family where considerable entertaining is done and a complete set of dining room furniture can be afforded. A more practical solution for the lower cost home is a larger living room and kitchen.

OUTDOOR PRIVACY is possible by shielding a portion of the area behind the home to develop an outside living area.

A GOOD TRAFFIC SITUATION THROUGH THE HOME. Can you go from any room in the house to a second room without going into a third?

PLENTY OF STORAGE SPACE is important for appliances in addition to such things as card tables, clothing, cleaning equipment, etc.

Two Sikeston Men Join Marines

CAPE GIRARDEAU - The marine crops recruiting office the enlistment of Jerry Paul Looney and William Dale Gardner.

Enlisting under the buddy plan for four years they will report to the marine corps recruit depot San Diego Tuesday.

Looney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Looney, 110 Roberts Ave., Sikeston, and Gardner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James William Gardner, 707 Troy St., Sikeston.

Half of the Celebes Sea is over 12,000 feet deep, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Farmer Dinner Set for Thursday

CHARLESTON -- Twenty Mississippi County agricultural businesses will sponsor the seventh annual Farmer's Appreciation Night dinner and program Thursday night at the armory, according to Bud Williams, arrangements chairman.

The meeting will include a dinner for farmers and their wives, musical entertainment, and remarks of interest to persons engaged in agriculture.

Alaska, California, South Dakota and Utah account for 73 per cent of the U.S. gold production.

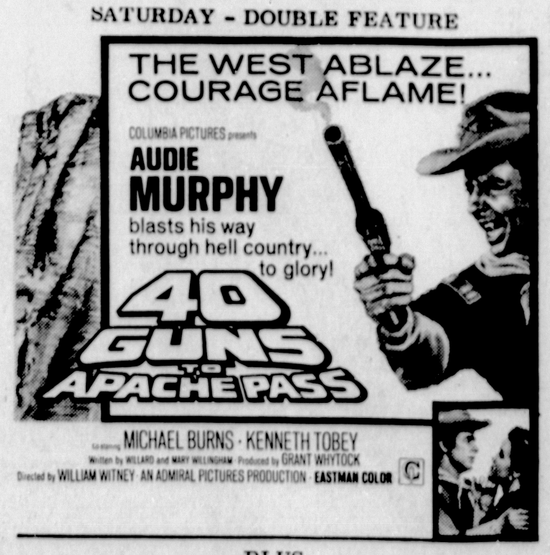

Linda Sue Workman To Address Men

PORTAGEVILLE - The United Christian Brotherhood will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the First Church of God. A fish supper will be served.

Linda Sue Workman, "Miss Tennessee," will speak.

Qulin Man Wounded

POPLAR BLUFF -- A Route 2, Qulin, man was reported in critical condition at Lucy Lee Hospital with wounds of the neck and abdomen.

Ervin Medlock, about 35, suffered cuts of the neck and abdomen, Deputy Sheriff Leo Hodge said. Hodge stated that Medlock was wounded at the home of Eldon Miller at Oglesville and added that Miller said that Medlock and another man were in the house drinking while Miller left the house to get some wood. Hodge said that Miller stated that when he returned Medlock was wounded.

The investigation is continuing and no arrests have been made.

Retiring Youth Agent, Wife To Be Honored

MATTHEWS - Alfred Byrd of Matthews will be honored at an open reception Sunday from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Lilbourn school cafeteria.

Byrd is retiring as extension youth agent of New Madrid County Jan. 31. He has been in extension work in New Madrid County 21 years, with 20 years in the youth program.

A recognition program will be presented at 3 p.m.

Hosts and hostesses will be persons from the county, who have been associated with Byrd, during his years in the youth work.

Eagleton Will Kick off Campaign

JEFFERSON CITY -- Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, announced today that his official campaign kick-off will be held in Jefferson City Feb. 23.

A dinner will be held at 7:30 P.M. at the Ramada Inn. Eagleton will speak.

Trooper, Wife Burned in House Fire

MALDEN - A Missouri highway patrolman and his wife suffered cuts and burns Friday while fleeing from their buring home after they awoke with it in flames.

Malden's Fire Department reported Trooper and Mrs. Melvin E. Duckworth were treated at a clinic for their injuries. A son, 4, escaped unharmed.

Fireman Bob McDonald said Mrs. Duckworth suffered first degree burns on her face and arms. Trooper Duckworth has first degree burns on his face and arms but third degree burns on a hand and a serious cut on his foot, the firemen reported.

McDonald said firemen were called to the Duckworths' one-story fram home at 903 North Madison about 10:25 a.m.

The fireman said the trooper had worked late Thursday night and the family was still asleep.

Mrs. Duckworth was able to flee through a rear doow, Mr. McDonald said. "However, Trooper Duckworth couldn't get out of the bedroom and had to kick out a window. This is when he cut his foot."

Fire Chief J. D. Wagster said the fire destroyed the home and its contents. "The blaze apparently started in the living room," the chief said. "However, it had such a head start we don't know what caused it."

Chief Wagster said the fire was out by 11:30 a.m.

BENTON -- Serivces for Army Pfc. James Everett Thompson, 21, who was killed in Vietnam, will be at 10 a.m. Monday in the St. Denis Catholic church with the Rev. Fr. Frank Donovan, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in the church cemetery with full military rites conducted by members of the army from Fort Leonard Wood.

The body will arrive at the Bisplinghoff Funeral Home tonight.

Parish prayers will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home conducted by the Knights of Columbus of Oran. Recitation of the rosary will be at 8 p.m. at the funeral home by members of the St. Denis parish.

Thompson entered the army March 14.

Harry F. H Gremore, New Madrid, Dies

NEW MADRID - Harry F. Gremore, 78, died at the Host House in Charleston Friday at 1 a.m.

He was born July 29, 1889, near Parma, son of Louis and Ella Hunter Gremore. He married Nora Waltrip, who died two years ago.

Surviving is one brother, W. H. Gremore, Catron.

Services will be 2 p.m. Monday in Richards Funeral Chapel.

Burial will be in Mounds Park cemetery.

Unsuccessful Candidate Faces Five Charges

POPLAR BLUFF - Donald Ray Robinson, 45, who was an unsuccessful candidate for Poplar Bluff police chief last year, faces five felony charges in New Madrid county.

The charges were filed by Prosecuting Attorney Hal Hunter after three girls, ages 16, 18 and 19, were alleged to have been enticed to work in the Club 62 operated by Robinson east of Malden.

The five felony charges are operating a bawdy house; criminal assault; secretly confining one against one's will, enticing females under 18 to work in a bawdy house, and accepting earnings of a prostitute. A misdemeanor charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor also was filed.

The mother of one of the girls and the guardian of another contacted officers Monday. Trooper M. E. Duckworth and Deputy Sheriff Willis Wingo investigated after the mother reported the girls were being forced to stay, do strip shows, have relations with men and to wait on trade. The 18 and 19-year-olds were found at the club, officers said.

Robinson was unsuccessful in his bid to gain the Democratic nomination for police chief in the city primary last March. He had operated the Fairway Inn before going to the 62 Club. The patrol report lists Robinson as the father of 12 children from one to 17.

The state patrol reported that the prosecuting attorney asked state liquor officers to take the beer license and close the club.

'Jake' Thomas Dies Friday

Jacob Wheeler "Jake" Thomas, 55, a retired auto mechanic, died at his home, 212 North West St., Friday.

"As a Chamber of Commerce president I know electric cooperatives benefit Missouri communities..."

—George E. Carr, Lebanon, Mo. C of C president, and president, The Durham Co., speaking to Jack Haugh, Manager, Laclede Electric Cooperative.

"Everything that makes my community more prosperous and vigorous and that helps us attract new business is of interest to me as Chamber of Commerce president.

"That's why I have never been one to overlook the important contributions of our local electric cooperative to the progress of my home community. These contributions benefit our community both directly and indirectly.

"I've always found the directors and management of our local electric cooperative to be exceptionally civic minded. They take an active part in our programs and support our projects full.

"Indirectly, the cooperatives have helped nearly every one of our merchant members by building a bigger market for the goods they sell. They have done this by making dependable electricity available to our farms, thereby making our farmers more prosperous—better customers for local products and services.

"Since electric cooperatives are owned by the local people they serve—they return to these member-owners any money above their actual cost of doing business. These funds, plus all the taxes the co-op pays stay right here to benefit the entire community.

"And, I haven't said anything about the youth education programs, safety campaigns and other community benefit programs the electric cooperatives carry on as a part of their regular activities.

"Not to mention their fine employees who take an active part in civic affairs. Our churches, schools, civic organizations — all benefit from the time and energy of the capable people who work at our local electric cooperative.

"The electric cooperatives are just plain good citizens that benefit our community, lending a hand and helping us in many ways."

Trooper, Wife Burned in House Fire

MALDEN - A Missouri highway patrolman and his wife suffered cuts and burns Friday while fleeing from their buring home after they awoke with it in flames.

Malden's Fire Department reported Trooper and Mrs. Melvin E. Duckworth were treated at a clinic for their injuries. A son, 4, escaped unharmed.

Fireman Bob McDonald said Mrs. Duckworth suffered first degree burns on her face and arms. Trooper Duckworth has first degree burns on his face and arms but third degree burns on a hand and a serious cut on his foot, the firemen reported.

McDonald said firemen were called to the Duckworths' one-story fram home at 903 North Madison about 10:25 a.m.

The fireman said the trooper had worked late Thursday night and the family was still asleep.

Mrs. Duckworth was able to flee through a rear doow, Mr. McDonald said. "However, Trooper Duckworth couldn't get out of the bedroom and had to kick out a window. This is when he cut his foot."

Fire Chief J. D. Wagster said the fire destroyed the home and its contents. "The blaze apparently started in the living room," the chief said. "However, it had such a head start we don't know what caused it."

Chief Wagster said the fire was out by 11:30 a.m.

Unsuccessful Candidate Faces Five Charges

POPLAR BLUFF - Donald Ray Robinson, 45, who was an unsuccessful candidate for Poplar Bluff police chief last year, faces five felony charges in New Madrid county.

The charges were filed by Prosecuting Attorney Hal Hunter after three girls, ages 16, 18 and 19, were alleged to have been enticed to work in the Club 62 operated by Robinson east of Malden.

The five felony charges are operating a bawdy house; criminal assault; secretly confining one against one's will, enticing females under 18 to work in a bawdy house, and accepting earnings of a prostitute. A misdemeanor charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor also was filed.

The mother of one of the girls and the guardian of another contacted officers Monday. Trooper M. E. Duckworth and Deputy Sheriff Willis Wingo investigated after the mother reported the girls were being forced to stay, do strip shows, have relations with men and to wait on trade. The 18 and 19-year-olds were found at the club, officers said.

Robinson was unsuccessful in his bid to gain the Democratic nomination for police chief in the city primary last March. He had operated the Fairway Inn before going to the 62 Club. The patrol report lists Robinson as the father of 12 children from one to 17.

The state patrol reported that the prosecuting attorney asked state liquor officers to take the beer license and close the club.
